WALKER BREAK TERMED BLOW TO ROOSEVELT

Attack by Mayor May Cost Governor His Own State.

TAMMANY AT ODDS WITH PARTY TICKET

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

The Democratic presidential campaign turned off sensationally on a new tangent yesterday following the dramatic resignation of Mayor James J. Walker, of New York. It was the consensus of opinion in Washington political circles that the violent attack of the gay and dapper Jimmy upon Gov. Roosevelt's political integrity probably would cost the governor his home State in the November electoral count.

Reverberations to the sudden and unexpected developments in New York City Hall Thursday night were Nation-wide, and in all quarters Tammany Hall's open declaration of war upon the Roosevelt forces was interpreted as an incident of the campaign which, even at this early date, may be regarded as decisive in the Eastern sector.

Until this week New York's 47 electoral votes were regarded generally as a toss-up between the Republican and Democratic national tickets, with possibly a slight advantage in favor of the native Mr. Roosevelt. It had been acknowledged almost from the day of the Chicago nomination that the governor's presumed advantage in the Empire State launched the Democratic national campaign to a flying start.

National Strategy Altered.

But Mayor Jimmy's action changes all that and suggests the probability of an entire reorganization of the Democratic national strategy, to throw the major effort into the normally heavily Republican Middle West.

The original Democratic campaign plan was based upon the belief that Tammany would go through militantly for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket in the five boroughs of the metropolitan district, and that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith would throw himself vigorously into the campaign.

In place of this roseate prospect, however, the picture today presents Tammany Hall, with its normal 500,000 Democratic majority, in open rebellion against the Democratic presidential nominee, and former Gov. Smith wholly engaged with preparations for his new duties as nonpartisan editor of a rehabilitated magazine.

Two Big Factors Absent.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt, who carried the State by 700,000 in 1930, faces a campaign this year without the aid of the two city factors, Al Smith and Tammany, who gave him almost 500,000 votes advantage at the Bronx line.

Putting the best possible face upon an admittedly difficult situation, some Democratic observers interpret

150 Miners Walk To Safety at Fire

Escape by Airway 2 Miles Down Pit as Blaze Trap Threatens.

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—More than 180 miners—the night shift at the Republic Iron & Steel Co.'s mine at Republic—calmly walked to safety through an airway tonight, while fire damaged the tipple and threatened to cut off their escape.

The fire broke out in a small shed at the top of the tipple and spread to the "bullwheel" with which the cage is operated. This shut off the main shaft and the workmen hurried to the airway about 2 miles down the pit. Through this hole they emerged one by one.

The Republic Fire Company was participating in a parade at nearby Smithton when the alarm was sounded and with delegations from New Salem, Brownsville and other towns hurried to the scene. Some battled the flames in their gaudy parade uniforms.

Barbour Is 24 Votes Behind in California

Fresno, Calif., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A recheck of unofficial returns today showed Glenn M. Devore, Fresno County district attorney, was leading Representative H. E. Barbour by 24 votes in the balloting for the Republican nomination for Congress for the Ninth district.

The vote was Devore, 10,330, and Barbour, 10,306. The final outcome will await the official canvass of ballots from Tuesday's election and the counting of some 600 absentee ballots next Tuesday.

Democratic Chief Named In Fraud Suit

ROBERT JACKSON.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Robert Jackson, secretary of the Democratic national committee and chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Roosevelt campaign, was charged by the Accumulative Royalties Corporation in a Supreme Court suit today with having fraudulently withheld $353,857.14 of the corporation's funds.

Jackson, who was president and treasurer of the corporation from June 15, 1927, to January 9, 1930, made a general denial of the allegations and charged the suit was "brought to embarrass him in his present occupation."

He asked the court to adjourn hearing of the case until November 15, saying he was busily engaged with

THOUSANDS ROUTED BY FLOOD IN TEXAS

Cloudburst Adds to Peril as Many Flee Homes in Eagle Pass.

Eagle Pass, Tex., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—About 1,000 residents of Eagle Pass, and an estimated 12,000 to 16,000 of the population of the Mexican town of Piedras Negras, were driven from their homes today as the Rio Grande and other streams in southwest Texas went on a rampage.

Twelve persons in Eagle Pass, who apparently were separated from their families during the confusion, were reported missing, but it was believed all were safe. Officials investigated to ascertain if any lives were lost.

Three-fourths of Piedras Negras, opposite here, was under water. Most of the 23,000 inhabitants had taken refuge on hillsides. Scores of adobe houses crumbled and fell in ruins.

A virtual cloudburst this afternoon, with rainfall of 3 inches in an hour, made the situation more critical and impeded rescue and salvage work.

In Eagle Pass twelve blocks in the residence district and part of the business district were inundated.

After reaching a peak stage of 52 feet, 10 feet higher than the record mark in the disastrous flood of 1922, the Rio Grande began to subside here, but it was feared the additional rain would send the stream up again.

In some sections the downpour exceeded 10 inches, while practically all of southwest Texas had more than 4 inches.

An iron bridge over Devils River was carried away, severing a railroad line leading west of Del Rio. Part

Plane Racers Escape Death When Wings Lock in Flight

Florence Klingensmith Is Winner of First Event for Women.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Undaunted by a spectacular racing crash that sent two pilots to the hospital, the "Powder Puff Brigade" staged its first show of the national air races today with Florence Klingensmith, of Minneapolis, winning the Amelia Earhart trophy.

In an earlier closed course race, William A. Warrick, jr., of Cleveland, and Paul S. Bloom, of Davenport, Iowa, plunged 150 feet to earth when their wings locked as they banked about the home pylon at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour. Both suffered brain concussions, but their condition tonight was reported as rapidly improving.

The accident, the first in seven days of racing and stunting, occurred as Bloom and Warrick, dueling for leadership of a 21-mile race for amateur pilots, rounded the last pylon and straightened for the dash. The right wing of Warrick's monoplane clipped the left wing of Bloom's. The planes quivered an instant, then crashed in a tangled wreckage 150 yards from

A short time after the crash Mrs. Marie McMillin, of Cleveland, a mother, made an unofficial parachute jump of 20,800 feet, exceeding the

STORM BREAKS TORRID SPELL; BOLT IS FATAL

Rain Forces Mercury to Fall 20 Degrees in Short Space.

MAN IN SOUTHWEST KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Woman Stunned; Damage by Water and Wind Heavy in Nearby Sections.

The heat wave was broken yesterday afternoon when a severe thundershower sent the temperature down 20 degrees. Five persons were prostrated earlier in the day.

One man was killed by lightning and considerable damage was reported in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

The mercury was climbing at the same dizzy pace of previous days when the storm struck and sent it downward. Rain fell much harder and longer in suburban districts than it did in the city proper.

Edward Jackson, colored, of 432 Ninth street southwest, was killed by a lightning bolt at Fourteenth and Water streets. He was removed to Emergency Hospital, but was dead on arrival.

Lightning Stuns Woman.

Lightning also struck at 718 F street southwest, where Mrs. Flossie Summers, 18, was slightly stunned from electricity conducted through a water pipe. She was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Two fires were started by lightning in Arlington County, Va.

At the home of Otto Blankenhorn, in Aurora Hills, a bolt caused a short circuit which burned the family's winter apparel, causing a total damage of $900. A car barn at Four-Mile Run, on the Alexandria-Washington highway, also caught fire. There was little damage.

Sewers and streams in Arlington County were swollen by the heavy rains and debris was swept across roads.

Maximum Temperature 98.

Many power and telephone lines in Montgomery County, Md., were temporarily out of order as a result of the lightning, it was reported. Hail fell near Cedar Grove, Md.

The silo of James D. King, near Germantown, Md., was struck by lightning and destroyed. It was valued at $1,000. The Gaithersburg-Washing-

Desks for Roosevelt School Are Delayed

Lack of Furniture at Opening of Term Is Possibility.

Despite the uncomfortable experience of a year ago when pupils at two District schools were required to sit on the floor because of a lack of school room furniture, there loomed yesterday a strong possibility that opening of the recently completed Roosevelt High School at Thirteenth and Upshur streets northwest, on September 19, will find much equipment, including the almost indispensable seats and desks, either not delivered or uninstalled.

Such a possibility was admitted last night by Jere J. Crane, first assistant superintendent of schools, in charge of buildings. The contract with a Grand Rapids furniture manufacturing concern, provides October 1 as the final date for delivery, he said.

With more than 1,600 pupils expected to storm the portals of the Executive Denies That He Intends To Resign.

Mexico City, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The entire cabinet of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio resigned today after learning that the president intended asking Congress for a leave of absence that he might go to the United States to obtain medical treatment.

The president's request for a leave was understood to be in the hands of the ministry of interior. Informed persons said he was going to Rochester, Minn.

Political differences as well as illness preceded the president's decision to ask Congress for a leave. Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, Mexico's "strong man," remained aloof from the action, refusing to sanction any "disturbance" within the ranks of the National Revolutionary party.

Rodriguez May Get Post.

There were no disorders in Mexico City tonight.

Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, now the minister of war, has been most prominently mentioned as the choice of Congress for the provisional presidency.

Constitutional lawyers will have to establish whether he—or whoever is elected—would serve until the end of the Ortiz Rubio term, which would be December 1, 1934, or only until special elections could be held.

Opens 35th Congress.

The president opened the thirty-fifth Mexican Congress yesterday with a speech in which he asserted that the nation was getting along well in foreign relations and was bothered by no major and few minor problems.

As the session started there were numerous reports that he would resign within 48 hours, and there were just as many that he would do nothing of the sort.

A few hours after the Congress had assembled the president took cognizance of these reports by issuing through his personal secretary a denial that he was stepping aside.

TWO BANDITS SLAIN AS HOLDUP IS FOILED

Pawnshop Clerk, Facing Guns, Gives Alarm; Policeman Believed Dying.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Two bandits were killed and one was probably fatally wounded in a police-robber battle today during the holdup of a Brooklyn pawnshop. Two policemen and a bystander also were hurt, one of the policemen seriously.

Quick thinking of a pawnshop clerk, Henry Doyle, who remembered to back toward a burglar alarm button when ordered to the shop wall, summoned police. The bandits, covering him with revolvers, did not see his thumb stealthily press the button as he stood with hands aloft, as ordered.

Warned by radio, patrolmen in cruising police cars sped toward the shop in the Red Hook section. A moment later gun fire cracked in the shop and street.

When the first police car pulled up, one of the four robbers was standing lookout at the door of the shop, two were covering Doyle and Joseph Higgins, another clerk, with pistols, and the fourth was pocketing small cash from a money drawer.

Patrolmen Peter De Carlo and Antonio De Franco, leaping from their car, rushed toward the door with pistols drawn. The lookout felled De Carlo as he ran, and was shot in turn by De Franco.

Then other cars arrived with more police and firing became general. One robber in the shop was shot and another on the street as he sought to escape.

Police said the men slain were George Lusbaum and Joseph Kelly, of Philadelphia. Walter Gunn, the third man, is in a Brooklyn hospital, not expected to live.

Patrolman De Carlo, hurried to a hospital operating table, was found to have been shot in the neck, fracturing his spinal column.

"Well, Doc, it's do or die," he murmured weakly to the surgeon as he went on the table. "I did the best I could."

Slight hope was expressed for his recovery.

2 States Advanced $690,000 by R.F.C.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday authorized an advance of $390,000 to Gov. Dern of Utah. At the same time it authorized an advance of $300,000 to Gov. Ross of Idaho. Both loans are for destitution relief.

The money to be advanced to Utah is to be used, $360,000 in Salt Lake County and $30,000 in Tooele County.

The loan to Idaho is to take care of current emergency relief needs in the mining and lumbering regions where, the board was informed, virtually all activity has been suspended and distress is increasing.

Flier Falls 1,500 Feet; Parachute Saves Life

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Sergt. Lionel Edwardes, of the Ninety-fourth Pursuit Squadron, Selfridge Field, fell out of an airplane at a height of 1,500 feet today—and didn't get a scratch.

Riding as an observer with Lieut. Paul Blanchard, Sergt. Edwardes, who was not strapped to his seat in the small Army plane, toppled out of the cockpit when Lieut. Blanchard put the ship in a slow roll. He dropped away from the plane, pulled the rip cord of his parachute and floated down unhurt in a cabbage patch.

U. S. View on German Arms Demand Sought

France Intends to Consult Washington, Although This Country Is Not Signatory to Versailles Treaty Involved.

Paris, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Although the United States is not a signatory to the Versailles Treaty, France intends to consult the American Government in connection with Germany's new demand for equality in arms with the other European powers.

In official quarters today it was explained the reason for consulting America is that the clauses of the Versailles Treaty covering German arms are embodied also in the separate peace treaty which the United States negotiated with Germany in 1921.

Meantime the French government will take its time examining the German side memoir, which demands revision of the Versailles armaments clauses. This consideration will be undertaken in collaboration with the other Versailles signatories.

The belief was expressed here that France will not depart from the traditional policy of turning over to the League of Nations or to the disarmament conference, which meets again soon, all matters pertaining to disarmament.

The steering committee of the disarmament conference was planning at the time of adjournment a substitute treaty covering the armaments provisions in the Versailles document. It is expected France will agree to this if the other Versailles signatories consent.

In League of Nations circles here it was said Germany, being aware of that program, wants to negotiate a separate armaments agreement with France beforehand.

The French council of ministers, meeting tomorrow, will consider all phases of the German demand.

The Polish Ambassador, whose government is vitally interested in German armaments, conferred for some time this afternoon with Premier Herriot.

It was understood the premier is sounding out the former World War allies on the method of handling the German request, whether by direct negotiation, or through the League of Nations, or through the disarmament conference.

Warsaw, Poland, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—It was semiofficially said tonight that Poland will return a negative answer to Germany's plea for permission to reorganize her army.

Bonifaz Is Refugee In U. S. Legation

1,000 Killed in Attempt to Make Him President of Ecuador.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Neptali Bonifaz, central figure in the revolt which was put down in Quito today after having kept the city in turmoil since Saturday, took refuge tonight in the American legation in the capital. Meanwhile government officials estimated that the brief revolt, the purpose of which was to gain the presidency for Bonifaz, had cost 1,000 lives.

There were unofficial reports that among those killed were Col. Juan Manuel Lasso, widely known in military circles; Gen. Leonidas Plaza, former president of the republic; Maj. Luis Urresta and Alfredo Pierro, and Jose Maria Plaza, jr. The two majors were said to have been assassinated in prison, where they were taken after they refused to command rebel troops.

Congress was to convene late tonight to receive from Acting President Alberto Guerrero Martinez a promise of constitutional government.

Atoka, Tenn., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Five men lay in wait today at the home of J. T. Glass, 68-year-old farmer, and his sister, Miss Laura Glass, 70, seized them upon their return and ransacked the house of $2,180, their life's savings.

The robbers bound the aged pair hand and foot with sacks and pieces of clothing and searched every nook and corner of the house. They fled in an automobile in the direction of Memphis.

Hines Plans to Attend Oregon Legion Session

Associated Press.)

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, Administrator of veterans affairs, said yesterday he informed President Hoover at a brief conference at the White House, that he was leaving shortly for Portland, Oreg., to attend the American Legion Convention.

Gen. Hines told newspapermen he intended to address the convention but declined to say whether he would discuss bonus legislation.

Hutchinsons Begin Flight to Greenland

Hopedale, Labrador, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—The "flying family" of Col. George R. Hutchinson left for Godthaab Greenland, in their amphibian airplane at 10:15 a. m. (E. S. T.) today en route over the North Atlantic to Edinburgh, Scotland. The flight to Greenland is 620 miles all over water. Flying conditions were excellent.

New York, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Col. Hutchinson will omit the dangerous flight over the Greenland ice pack, and add about 500 miles to his flight eastward to Iceland, in order to meet the wishes of the Danish government, Hubert Malkus, local representative of the flying family, said today.

Copenhagen, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Officials of the Greenland administration tonight hinted they were considering the confiscation of the airplane of Col. George Hutchinson.

The confiscation would take place when the plane reaches Godthaab because Hutchinson defied the Danish authorities, who refused him permission to fly over Greenland on the grounds that proper preparations had not been made.

CIVIL SERVICE BONUS BACKER REINSTATED

Action Directed by Hoover; Declares He Does Not See "Political Activity."

(Associated Press.)

Reversing a previous action, the administration yesterday reinstated a Gary, Ind., postoffice clerk who had been discharged after being accused, among other things, of advocating cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Postmaster General Brown said the question raised involved "the right of postal employes freely to express their views upon public matters," and President Hoover said "the fact that they differ with my views does not necessarily constitute 'political activity' under the law which forbids such action."

Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, said the commission had promulgated no new regulations which would prevent Government workers from expressing themselves publicly upon the bonus.

The commission's standing regulation reads:

"Political activity under the civil service act and rules has as a question of general interpretation been regarded as any participation in obtaining legislation of general public nature concerning which there is more or less widespread difference of opinion. Political activity need not be partisan in the party sense to be prohibited under the rules."

In response to questions about the Gary case, Mr. Campbell told the Associated Press Thursday that public discussion of the bonus by Government employes would be considered "political activity" within the meaning of the law. He did not specify at the time that this was only his own opinion. Yesterday, responding to a formal inquiry from the White House, he said the commission had "not promulgated a new regulation" on that subject.

The case was an outgrowth of the discharge of W. H. Kerr. He was charged by the Gary postmaster with "serious infractions of the postal laws." Postmaster General Brown said, and, in addition, introducing a bonus resolution at a meeting of the American Legion in Crown Point, Ind.

The specifications drafted by the Postoffice Department said this reso-

Flagship of Byrd In Bay Smash-Up

Steamer Eleanor Bolling Damages Schooner in Collision.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The steamer Eleanor Bolling, flagship of the Byrd Antartic expedition, and the two-masted schooner Walter, of Baltimore, were in collision last night in Chesapeake Bay, off the mouth of the Rappahannock River. The schooner was taken in tow by the Bolling and reached Norfolk this afternoon.

According to Capt. James Ingleston, of the Eleanor Bolling, the schooner's lights were dim and he did not see them until the sailing craft was right on his starboard bow.

The force of the crash stove a big hole in the schooner's side and when she arrived here her decks were awash and much of her deck load of lumber had been washed overboard. The Eleanor Bolling was practically undamaged. The schooner was bound for Washington, D. C., from Washington, N. C., and the Bolling, out of Washington, D. C., was en route to Norfolk.

WALKER ACT BRINGS ON POLITICAL STORM

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Violent cross-currents of political opinion seethed over New York tonight as to the effect of James J. Walker's resignation.

An air of uncertainty hung over each phase of the complicated situation brought about by the resignation, as Joseph V. McKee, aldermanic president, assumed the duties of mayor.

The three most pertinent questions to which there were no definite answers were these:

Can the office be filled by a special election this November, or does McKee hold office until the expiration of Walker's term, December 31, 1933?

Is Walker definitely a candidate for reelection?

If he is, will Tammany Hall and its political allies give him the Democratic nomination and throw their full strength behind his campaign?

In the face of widespread prediction that Tammany Chief John F. Curry and the other borough leaders would back Walker in a vindication campaign, John H. McCooey, Brooklyn leader and one of Curry's allies, said:

"It is not fully decided yet whether Mayor Walker will run for reelection this coming election."

The opposition of three of the five borough leaders could prevent Walker from seeking reelection as the regular Democratic candidate, even if he so desired.

The Democratic mayoralty candidate in this city is selected, not by a primary, but by the party organization. A majority vote of borough leaders is required for a "regular" candidate.

McCooey was the only one of the five who commented. Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, Roosevelt campaign aid and leader in the Bronx, McKee's borough, could not be reached.

Mayor McKee's Status.

Although the debonair former mayor has not definitely stated he would seek reelection, his statement that he would submit his case "to the people" was interpreted as meaning he would run.

The question most discussed in the City Hall, in political headquarters and on the streets was whether McKee has assumed the mayor's toga for four months or sixteen.

City Clerk Michael J. Cruise, a Tammany district leader, certified to the board of elections today that the office of mayor is "vacant" and should be filled at the general election in November.

On the other hand, Walker's opponents contended that a mayoralty election can be held only in an odd-numbered year and that an election next month would be illegal. In many quarters a court fight to decide the question was predicted. McKee's own advisors took this view.

If no one else takes action to throw the question into the courts, some of those who sought Walker's removal have indicated they will.

The point all hinges around what has been termed the vague and contradictory wording of the State constitution and the city charter on the subject.

McKee States Position.

McKee said he would have to study the question before he could express an opinion as to how long he automatically holds office.

In the meantime, in a formal statement expressing "sorrow and deep regret" over the "unhappy circumstances of the case," he referred to himself as "acting mayor."

Corporation Counsel J. W. Hilly discussed the point with McKee, but declined to make any statement until he had given the controversy more consideration.

If it is decided that an election is to be held in November, and if Tammany and its allies give the Democratic nomination to Walker, a highly complicated situation is likely to develop.

Gov. Roosevelt heads the Democratic ticket. For days last month he and Walker faced each other in the executive chamber at Albany while the mayor's critics outlined charges on which they demanded Walker's removal.

ton Grove Volunteer Fire Department put out the blaze.

The maximum temperature of the day was recorded at 2:15 p. m., when it was 98 degrees, according to the Weather Bureau. At 5 p. m. the reading was 76 degrees.

The persons prostrated before the break in temperature are Horace Chalmers, 51, of 3743 Jocelyn street, who collapsed as he was getting off a street car at Eighteenth street and Columbia road; Paul Keep, 30, a huckster, of 1011 Twenty-ninth street northwest; Carl Thompson, 58, of 910 Twentieth street northwest; Ethel Hunter, 28, of 1335 Twelfth street northwest, and Richard Smith, colored, 58, of 914 Twenty-seventh street northwest.

While Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of District Commissioners, has steadfastly refused requests during the last three days that the District Building be closed on account of the heat, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, yesterday permitted all employes in his office to leave at 3 p. m.

Forecast for Today.

Almost before the commission workers reached home, however, the cooling effect of the shower was evident.

The Weather Bureau promises that today will not be excessively warm. It will be cloudy, with the possibility of showers and cool northeasterly winds.

The storm was blamed by police for the injury of three persons in an automobile crash at Eleventh and T streets northwest.

A car operated by Peter J. Adams, colored, 29, of 1314 Nineteenth street northwest, was in a collision with that of Guy W. Geiger, 23, of College Park, Md.

Geiger received a bruised shoulder. Adams a wrenched back, and Miss Polly Roberts, 18, of 1008 Eleventh street northwest, a passenger in Geiger's car, lacerations to the head and back. All the injured were treated at Garfield Hospital.

Joseph V. McKee Assumes Role as Hizzoner Pro Tem

Duties No New Experience to Bronx-Born Scot and Golfer-Poloist.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A quiet, scholarly Scot today took over the duties laid aside by one of the world's best-known Irish wits.

Joseph Vincent McKee walked into the City Hall, took off his coat and started work as the Mayor of New York City. When James J. Walker resigned last night, McKee, who was president of the board of aldermen, was automatically elevated to the position of mayor.

McKee said he was "exceedingly sorry" about the Walker resignation, referred to himself as "acting mayor" and plunged immediately into the problems of city government, mainly the work of cutting down the budget.

The third mayor since the World War, McKee is far removed in character from the fiery John F. Hylan (1918-1926) and the effervescent Walker (1926-1932). As president of the board of alderman, he has often been outspoken in disagreeing with the policies of Walker.

The two—McKee and Walker—present a striking contrast. About the same height, McKee is more rugged than his slim predecessor. He dresses trimly but without the dash that always characterizes Walker's attire.

Teacher at Fordham.

A graduate of Fordham University in 1911 with degrees of A. B., A. M., LL. B., and LL. D., McKee taught Greek and Latin for the next three years at Fordham and English for three years more at a high school.

McKee got his start in politics while serving on a church committee. A barber in the congregation was dying and wanted to become a citizen before he passed away. Friends suggested that McKee see Arthur Murphy, Bronx County chairman, which he did, and the barber was furnished his final papers. Some time later Murphy, now dead, came around to see McKee and persuaded him to run for State assemblyman.

McKee was elected in 1917 and each year for six years was reelected. In 1924 Gov. Smith appointed him justice of the City of New York. He was returned to that bench by the biggest vote of any judiciary candidate that year. A year later he became the Democratic candidate for president of the board of aldermen and has served in that office ever since.

While acting mayor a few years ago, McKee sent police raiding Broadway shows. One play, "The Captive," was closed, and Mae West, star in another production, was given a jail sentence.

While serving in the State Assembly, McKee was a stanch advocate of strict censorship of moving pictures.

Worked for $6 Weekly.

Unlike Walker, who scintillates in box seats at hockey games and prize fights, McKee prefers to be the player rather than the fan. He often plays polo before breakfast in an uptown armory and he is a real devotee of golf. He shoots in the upper 70's and lower 80's.

The McKee family—the mayor, his wife and two sons, Joseph, jr., 11, and Richard, 2—lives during the summer at Mamaroneck, 20 miles up on the Westchester County Shoreline.

McKee. He has been acting mayor so many times that few New Yorkers know how often.

He was born in the Bronx 43 years ago.

"I made one long trip in my life," he said, "to Havana."

McKee's father and mother and four older children were born in Glasgow, Scotland.

He worked his way through school. He held a variety of jobs—hotel clerk at Lake Champlain in northern New York, law clerk with a salary of $6 a week, and assistant to the president of Fordham University.

In his own white paneled office, hung with massive oil paintings of previous mayors, McKee explained he would not have to take any oath of office. He referred to himself repeatedly as the "acting mayor."

He said he would not move into Walker's own office—a more elaborate one than his own, half a city block down a long corridor—until next week.

Salary Almost Doubled.

Of Walker's resignation he said:

"I am exceedingly sorry. I regret I have to be injected into this position under these particular circumstances."

The one thing he did want to talk about was city financial affairs. He said he would make immediate and drastic cuts in the city budget.

"Cutting the budget to the bone is an old phrase," he asserted "but this time it is going to be done."

He said he had not been informed of any intended resignations among city officials.

"I intend to get along well with everyone in the city government," he added, "and if I don't it won't be my fault."

After posing for dozens of photographs, conferring with many of his department heads, presiding at a board of estimate meeting and talking into a battery of news reel microphones, he left his office on the dot of 5:30 p. m. and started home by subway.

His day's work had netted him almost double what he has been previously earning for his annual salary is now $40,000 instead of $25,000.

WALKER DENOUNCED IN PRESS COMMENT

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Excerpts from editorials on the resignation of James J. Walker as mayor, appearing in New York newspapers, follow:

WORLD-TELEGRAM: He seeks martyrdom by resigning. He attacks the Governor of the State with almost hysterical extravagance. He flies to the "forum of the people."

Well, he will find in that forum, we think, only a prevailing, steadily widening verdict that he has merely "beaten the governor to it"—and that he, Mr. Walker, is politically finished.

THE SUN: Mr. Walker has dramatic qualities, but his statement accompanying his resignation is rather hysterical. He throws at Gov. Roosevelt—his own party's nominee for President—every egg in his basket. * * *

"Bosses'" Consent Seen.

* * * Gov. Roosevelt's conduct of the hearing has been highly and widely praised for his evident effort to get at the facts in the case. * * *

It must be assumed from the confidence with which Mr. Walker announces his candidacy for reelection that Bosses Curry and McCooey consented to his program. * * *

Assuming that Messrs. Curry and McCooey have given to Mr. Walker their blessing, the situation in the Democratic party in this city is remarkable. To name for mayor a man who said of the Democratic candidate for President what James J. Walker said yesterday will mean that Tammany Hall and its Brooklyn affiliate have bolted Franklin D. Roosevelt.

THE POST—Realizing that to quit under fire is generally regarded as a confession of guilt, Mayor Walker and his counsel have spent much ink in trying to avert this inference. * * *

Plea Is Branded Comic.

The plea that the mayor had no opportunity to confront and cross-examine the witnesses who had testified before the Hofstadter committee, is nothing short of comic. * * *

If there could be anything weaker than Mayor Walker's defense before Mr. Seabury and Gov. Roosevelt, it would be the statements issued on his behalf by himself and Mr. Curtin. But there should be no harsh criticism of the allegations put forward in these statements. A case so poor as Mr. Walker's needs every prop, which can be dragged up.

BROOKLYN EAGLE—Mr. Walker's resignation under fire is the least heroic of maneuvers, the last desperate recourse of a man determined to "beat the rap" by putting himself out of reach of the governor's authority. * * *

Since Mr. Walker has announced at the moment of resigning that he intends to seek again the same office, his statement must be read with that clearly in mind. It is more of a campaign speech than a defense. * * *

"Sentimental Appeal."

It is a sentimental appeal for sympathy and support based on the charge that the Mayor of New York has in the most despicable way been made the victim of injustice at the hands of the governor.

This is manifestly absurd. * * *

NEW YORK DAILY NEWS—* * * Now ex-Mayor Walker says he's going to appeal to a higher tribunal, the great tribunal of the people, for exoneration and vindication. That's more grandiloquent than truthful. What he means is that he's going to ask Tammany district leaders to renominate and reelect him—something their machine always has been able to do. * * *

Regardless of the question of whether the heavy cash gifts Walker received were criminal or merely undignified, one serious charge against Walker was not made. That's the charge that he didn't stick to his desk and really do hard work. * * *

Jimmy Walker's a charming, brilliant, magnetic fellow. That's why we think he should have continued to shine in legislative halls rather than have attempted to chain himself to the hard work of an executive desk.

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL FURNITURE DELAYED

spacious and beautiful new structure on opening day of school, Principal Allan Davis declared that such an eventuality would cause considerable confusion when combined with the fact that it would occur on initial use of the new school.

Considerable training equipment, laboratory apparatus and all the gymnasium apparatus will not be on hand for months, it was learned, and though this will not work any hardship on pupils or school officials, ambitious programs planned for the new institution will be hampered.

Mr. Crane said that the stage for the possible upset in plans for having the Roosevelt School ready was set when Congress did not make the money available for the equipment until the beginning of this fiscal year, July 1. Thus, by the time bids had been advertised and finally awarded much time had been consumed.

The assistant superintendent said he had been visited yesterday by a representative of the firm that has the contract for furnishing the desks and seats. This man assured the official that every possible effort is being made to get the equipment here in time for installation before September 19. One consignment, he told Mr. Crane, was on the way. This comprises about one-third of the equipment.

The factory will run full blast on both the coming Sunday and Labor Day in order to get the furniture ready, said the representative of the Grand Rapids firm. Barring any mischance and with expeditious freighting, he expected to get the desks and seats here in time. Installation, it was promised, would be begun with a large crew and would require only two or three days.

The 1,620 students expected comprise about 100 more than architectural estimates of accommodation in the building. However, Mr. Davis said these, with the proper equipment, could be handled and that from 100 to 200 more could probably be taken care of.

Last year school officials were confronted with the exigency of two elementary schools without furniture on the opening day of school. The equipment had been held up because of a ruling by the Comptroller General.

Students at the two schools sat cross-legged on floors on newspapers and books while their lessons were taught them. After several days confusion the situation was solved with the use of old furniture from other buildings.

Walker Ran Away, Seabury Declares

Chief Accuser Says Mayor Knew Conduct Could Not Be Explained.

New York, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter legislative committee and chief accuser of Mayor James J. Walker, discharged a farewell blast at the resigned executive before he sailed tonight for a vacation in England. Walker, Seabury said, was "running away."

"Mr. Walker's conduct would not stand the light of day," Seabury said. "He knew it, and, confronted by the evidence, he ran away, laying down as he ran a smoke-screen of vilification and abuse of the governor."

Seabury reviewed the evidence and said:

"It is not surprising that Mr. Walker should have resigned. He had no defense. It was conclusively proved that he enriched himself as the result of his mayoralty. He simply could not explain. When the governor put pointed questions to him he stammered and stuttered and made almost incoherent replies."

HOOVER ECONOMICS HELD WITHOUT PEER

Jahncke Asserts President Does Not Offer Nursery Rhymes to Electorate.

Special to The Washington Post.

Kingston, R. I., Sept. 2.—President Hoover was described as being without a peer as a student of economics by Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in an address to day at the Kingston State Fair at Kingston, R. I.

"The President offers the electorate neither nursery rhymes nor quotations from Mother Goose, but he has provided the Nation with one safe, sure and certain road to recovery; and he spends from ten to sixteen hours in the White House office daily doing everything in the power of the Executive to remove obstacles from the road," he asserted.

"Every public utterance from the President is forceful, factual and nonpartisan," Mr. Jahncke said. "His accomplishments are apparent today. His various agencies created for our business recovery and in the interest of every American form a nonpartisan record of executive action unparalleled in all the years we have existed as a Nation."

Jahncke described Speaker Garner as Roosevelt's assistant, "who raises sheep in Texas and pork in the House of Representatives." Of Gov. Roosevelt he said: "He has been featured on a great radio network presumably during the children's hour."

"Now," he said, "the gradual ascent to normal conditions is fully under way and recognizable to all. It remains for the voter, the average American citizen, to decide whether this process shall continue."

3 Parliament Members Fail to Arbitrate Strike

Manchester, England, Sept. 2 (A.P.). Three members of Parliament from the Lancashire district tried unsuccessfully today to arbitrate the cotton mill strike in which nearly 200,000 weavers are participating. They suggested that union officials and mill owners confer with them to restore peace in the industry. The employers replied that something more than a negotiating medium was needed to end this deadlock and declined to participate.

Meantime it was reported government authorities already were attempting to bring the disputants together. The men have refused to accept a pay cut and certain changes in working conditions.

Senator Swanson Plans Visit to Gov. Roosevelt

(Associated Press.)

Senator Swanson will visit Gov. Roosevelt at Albany next week to discuss campaign plans. At New York City on his way to Albany he will confer with James A. Farley, Democratic national committeeman, on plans for coordinating the presidential and senatorial campaigns.

Swanson is chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee. He probably will be accompanied on the trip by Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the House Democratic campaign committee.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES FOR COAST SEPT. 12

End of Walker Case Makes It Possible to Map Tour Definitely.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—In two minutes today, Gov. Roosevelt pushed the Walker case obstacle out of his presidential campaign pathway, where it has rested since the governor became the presidential nominee on July 1.

So long as the fitness of the New York Mayor to remain in office was a question for him to answer, Mr. Roosevelt's plans for campaigning could not be definitely drawn. To meet the possibility that the Walker hearing would be continued beyond next week, Mr. Roosevelt yesterday spent three hours rearranging a Western swing. Originally scheduled to begin on September 12, he set it back a week.

Today, however the Coast trip plans were completed. It will start on September 12. It was understood in circles close to Gov. Roosevelt that a Southern trip, to start about October 12, a week after the Western swing ends, is under consideration.

Southern Trip Itinerary.

It contemplates stops at Louisville, Nashville, perhaps Knoxville, Tenn.; Warm Springs, Ga.; Raleigh, N. C., and either Philadelphia or Pittsburgh. That trip, it was said, would bring Mr. Roosevelt back to New York about October 25, two weeks before the national election on November 8.

A few minutes ahead of the time for a resumption of the New York Mayor's ouster hearing this afternoon, Mr. Roosevelt appeared in the "Hall of Governors." He read a telegram from John J. Curtin, Walker's chief counsel, advising the governor that the mayor had resigned.

Roosevelt then announced:

"The honorable mayor, J. J. Walker, has resigned. His action in so doing has therefore terminated the proceedings before the governor. I therefore declare the hearing closed."

Goes to Schenectady Today.

Tomorrow, the Democratic presidential nominee goes to Schenectady for a luncheon of "Young Democrats." He will speak extemporaneously. Afterward Mr. Roosevelt will motor to Bridgeport, Conn., for a dinner in honor of himself and Archibald McNeil, the State's national committeeman. At Bridgeport, the governor will deliver the third of his week-end campaign speeches in Republican territory. The other two were at Columbus, Ohio, and Seagirt, N. J.

With the Walker hearing out of the way, Mr. Roosevelt's plans for a trip to the Pacific Coast were quickly completed. He will leave September 12 and before returning to Albany the first week of October, will appear in the Middle-West farm States, the Pacific Northwest, California, the Rocky Mountain States, the Southwest and the industrial region of the Great Lakes.

Cities to be visited include Topeka, Kans.; Denver, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, Butte, Mont.; Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Williams, Ariz.; Albuquerque, N. Mex.; possibly Omaha, Nebr.; Sioux City, Iowa, Milwaukee, Chicago and Detroit.

FASCIST SENTENCES COMMUTED BY REICH

Von Papen Presides Over Board Giving Life to Five Condemned to Die.

Berlin, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Prussia's board of commissioners, appointed by the federal government and with Chancellor von Papen himself presiding, today commuted to life imprisonment a sentence of death imposed recently on five Fascists.

Three of them are members of Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party. The others are identified with a Fascist organization allied with the Nazis. They were convicted of killing a Communist in a political brawl. The trial was in one of the new "speed courts" established especially to deal with political crimes.

The maximum sentence, the first to be imposed under an emergency decree providing capital punishment for political murder, aroused the National Socialists to a frenzy of indignation. So violent was the letter which Hitler wrote to the chancellor about the trial that it was cited to support a recent rumor that the Nazi leader was a nervous wreck.

It was established during the trial that the crime of which the men were accused was committed only an hour and a half after the emergency decree imposing capital punishment became effective. Numerous organizations which protested against the sentence made much of this point in requesting that the government give the condemned men the benefit of the possibility that they were ignorant of the decree.

Presumably the Prussian commissioners took this fact into consideration. It seemed likely that they were even more strongly influenced by the consideration that the Nazis might quiet down somewhat if mercy were extended.

The five men will have a hearing now, probably a trial by jury in the regular courts.

lution was "contrary to the expressed wishes of the President, who considers such legislation harmful to the country at this time."

After this became known yesterday, President Hoover wrote the Postmaster General, saying:

"As you are aware, I have never made any such suggestion as to this or any other public question in its relation to the conduct of Government employes. The fact that they differ with my views does not necessarily constitute 'political activity' under the law which forbids such action.

"In order that there may be no misunderstanding or misrepresentation in this matter, I consider that Mr. Kerr should be reinstated in the postoffice service at once."

Brown's reply said Kerr's record disclosed "several serious infractions of the postal laws and regulations warranting severe disciplinary action."

Reinstatement Ordered.

"However," he added, "since the record raises the right of postal employes freely to express their views upon public matters, a right as to which there should be no question, I am directing the reinstatement of Clerk Kerr."

In another letter, President Hoover asked Campbell if action had been taken prohibiting Government employes and their families from expressing publicly their views on the bonus.

Replying, Campbell said the question had not been brought before the commission and, therefore, no position had been taken.

He told newspapermen however, that if Kerr's discharge had stood, Kerr would undoubtedly have appealed to the commission and it would have determined whether the regulations prohibiting political activity applied.

Personally, Campbell said, he believed it would be applicable.

The interpretation barring discussion of prohibition by Civil Service employes was adopted several years ago, Mr. Campbell said, with members of the family directly dependent upon the Government salary included in the ban.

Postal Clerk Is Silent On Plans for Return

Gary, Ind., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—W. H. Kerr, postal clerk ordered reinstated, tonight was noncommital about whether he would re-enter postal employ.

He started work today in connection with Lake County poor relief and said he would make no statement regarding return to postal employment until he received official notification from Washington of his reinstatement.

Kerr said there were three charges that resulted in his discharge May 9. He said he was accused of being "active politically" for a certain candidate for governor; of introducing a resolution at a district American Legion meeting for payment of the soldier bonus, and of being a "disturbing element" in the local postoffice.

Experts on Insurance Talk on Compensation

A. Z. Skelding, assistant actuary of the National Council on Compensation Insurance, and W. H. Davis, manager of the District Compensation Insurance Rating Bureau, testified yesterday on the recent rate boost on compensation insurance before a committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was held in connection with a luncheon at the University Club.

WALKER'S ATTACK MAY COST ROOSEVELT HIS OWN STATE

Mayor Walker's attack as a development likely to aid the nominee throughout the country. By marking Gov. Roosevelt definitely as a foe of the firmly entrenched Tammany system, runs this view, the mayor's declaration of war may win more votes for the national ticket in the West than the Wigwam can alienate in New York City. But to this optimistic conclusion other Democrats reply that under the electoral count 250,000 votes in New York City might mean the difference between carrying the State and losing it, whereas, even 1,000,000 votes scattered throughout the Republican Middle West might not add a single electoral tally on the Democratic side.

Other Side of Question.

The suggestion, however, that Walker's resignation might enhance Democratic prospects in the Middle West was promptly discounted on the Republican side, principally on the basis that as the climax approached in New York it was Mr. Walker who took the decisive step and not Gov. Roosevelt. Thus, say the Republican commentators, Mr. Roosevelt gains no cheers for breaking with Tammany, for in truth it was Tammany which broke with Mr. Roosevelt.

Although Mr. Walker is firm in his declarations that he will seek vindication at the polls in a special election in November, seasoned political observers doubt he will be permitted to carry his warfare against Roosevelt that far. It is pointed out that there are many legal points to be cleared before a special election would be in order, and it is also questioned in some quarters whether Mr. Walker's health would permit him to launch at once into a strenuous vindication campaign.

Successor May Continue.

Those familiar with New York law on the point believe Mayor Joseph V. McKee, Mr. Walker's successor, will continue in office for the remainder of the current term, December 31, 1933. If the courts sustain McKee's right to do this, Mr. Walker could not launch his campaign for reelection until the Democratic primary in the spring of 1933. Meanwhile Mayor McKee, an ardent Roosevelt supporter, would continue at the helm in the Tammany stronghold.

Even among some of Mr. Roosevelt's friends in Washington there were expressions of dismay yesterday over the fact that the governor had permitted a golden political opportunity to slip away without decisive action. Fears that the governor's temporizing with the Seabury evidence might lead to unhappy consequences had been expressed repeatedly since the Albany hearings began three weeks ago, but they had been quieted to a degree with the suggestion that an extended hearing there might assuage the grief of Tammany when at last it became the governor's painful duty to remove the mayor.

Deprived of Opportunity.

Had this program succeeded, Mr. Roosevelt might then have had the advantage of denouncing municipal corruption in ringing terms for the Middle West and yet have retained the support of Tammany. But as things turned out he has been deprived of the opportunity to denounce and has lost Tammany as well.

Betting odds in New York, which in June had ruled 7 to 5 in favor of Roosevelt's carrying the State, dropped consistently after the Albany hearings began. When Mr. Walker announced his resignation Thursday night the odds switched sharply to President Hoover, and last night the betting was 2 to 1 in favor of a safe Republican majority in the State next November.

So intense was the anti-Roosevelt feeling in Tammany Hall following Mr. Walker's denunciation of the Albany proceedings, that the leaders there began laying plans not only to forsake the national ticket at the polls, but to challenge Gov. Roosevelt's leadership in the State convention in October. Mr. Roosevelt long ago selected Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman as heir to the New York gubernatorial nomination. Yesterday New York dispatches told of a movement under way in Tammany to abandon Lehman and throw the governor's nomination to Mayor John Boyd Thatcher of Albany.

At the same time, these reports continue, Tammany leaders are looking for a man to advance to the important post of chairman of the Democratic State central committee, to replace James A. Farley, Gov. Roosevelt's preconvention manager and now chairman of the Democratic national committee.

The first direct clash between the Roosevelt and Tammany forces under this new alignment will come next week, when the Democratic State committee will meet in New York City to decide upon the time and place of the State convention.

Mr. Roosevelt has indicated his preference for Buffalo, Syracuse or Rochester. John F. Curry, the poobah of Tammany, said yesterday he favored Albany. The committee division on the convention city, therefore, will provide the first record on how deeply Mr. Walker's revolt has cut into Democratic solidarity in New York State.

MRS. ROSS ASSAILS HOOVER'S DRY VIEWS

Country Must Decide if It Wants Four More Years of "Followship," She Says.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Assailing the Republican resubmission plank and President Hoover's stand on prohibition, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross declared here tonight that the country must decide whether it wants four more years "of a regime which, having been characterized by uncertainty, delay and expediency, places upon it the stamp of followship rather than leadership."

The former Wyoming Governor and now vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, addressing a party rally, said the dry forces "are now faced with the problem whether they can longer trust their cause in the hands of one so vacillating as President Hoover has proven himself to be; one who, seeming to have taken the stand, can not maintain it."

"The West," she added in a text released by the Democratic national committee, "must decide whether the eleventh-hour concession made to their position was a vote-getting gesture, or a sudden change of heart on the part of the President."

Mrs. Ross said it was "a matter of common knowledge that the majority of the Republican delegates at Chicago wanted to draft a much more liberal plank than they did, but the President would not permit it: Safety first was his motto!

"The sentiment of the people at that time was less crystallized than now. The Democratic convention met ten days later and boldly declared its stand for repeal. The response of the people throughout the Nation was unmistakably favorable; the President, with his flair for opportunism, takes advantage of the development. In his acceptance speech he goes much farther than his party's platform to repudiate the eighteenth amendment.

"When, however, his pronouncement is analyzed it is scarcely less ambiguous. He would have the results of repeal without repeal, he would have the States take unto themselves the right to make their own regulations and at the same time keep tied to them the strings of Federal Government, incidentally making secure the jobs of the Federal Revenue officers, who help compose the stupendous bureaucracy at Washington. Confusion worse confounded would be the result."

Washington Girl, 7, Chosen Carnival Queen

Cape May, N. J., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Seven-year-old Charlotte Lee Loss, of 2726 Connecticut avenue, Washington, D. C., was chosen Queen Maysea VI at the annual Cape May baby parade today, and she will reign over the carnival next year.

The new queen was presented with a trophy from Gov. A. Harry Moore, the presentation being made by Mayor William Shepherd. More than 300 babies took part in the parade, which was reviewed by Commander Mulroy, of Gov. Moore's staff.

ENGLAND TELLS U.S. OF NEW TARIFF RISE

Further Drastic Duties to Be Imposed Tuesday; Levies Lifted by Australia.

(Associated Press.)

Information that further drastic duties on imports would be imposed Tuesday by England reached the Commerce Department yesterday along with a message that Australia had ordered the removal of temporary prohibitions on foreign commodities at once.

These changes follow the announcement this week of Germany's plan to hike import levies, also on Tuesday.

William L. Cooper, commercial attache at London, said in a message that "increased duties are to be imposed in the United Kingdom on canned cherries, candied fruit peel, meat and poultry pastes and sausages, leather gloves, printer's ink, varnishes, lacquers, enamels, certain wrapping papers, hair combs, screws and scissors."

The new rates will apply to imports from all non-British sources and in addition to existing specific rates, are to bear a duty of 25 per cent ad valorem. A drawback on certain articles reexported will be allowed.

Earl C. Squire, trade commissioner at Sydney, said import prohibitions had been lifted on cheese, lemons, oranges, certain dried fruits, preserved fruits and vegetables, jams, jellies, wireless receiving sets, aluminum and enamel ware, cast iron pipes and fittings, inflexible shafting, iron and steel structural shapes, bolts, nuts, rivets, wire, nails and certain plated tableware.

In addition, the 50 per cent surtax duty on most apparel, paints, colors, varnishes, leather manufactures, including belting and footwear, bags, trunks, purses, brooms, carpet sweepers and vacuum cleaners was removed.

Certain types of machinery for road making, internal combustion engines, electric machines, jewelry, sheet glass, matches and other articles are to have reduced duties.

Widow of Hammerstein Names Stepson in Suit

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Emma Swift Hammerstein, widow of Oscar Hammerstein, opera impresario, today sued her stepson, Arthur Hammerstein, for alleged breaking of a contract to support her for life. She asked $100,000 damages.

Mrs. Hammerstein was convicted of an immoral conduct charge in women's court June 6, 1930, but the conviction was reversed the following October by the appellate division on the ground she had been convicted on insufficient evidence. In her suit brought in supreme court today, she said her stepson had agreed to support her for life if she would leave the country, which she did, following upon her vindication.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Paris, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Several persons were injured tonight in a riot outside a hall in the Latin quarter where Henri Barbusse, French novelist, and Prof. H. W. Dana, of Harvard University, were scheduled to speak at a peace meeting. Police charged the crowd, members of which attacked them with chairs taken from cafes.

Zagreb, Jugoslavia, Sept. 2 (A. P.). Dispatches from Bihac, Bosnia, today said that a severe earthquake hit the village of Turje in the midst of a violent storm yesterday, shaking down houses, killing three persons and injuring several others. Three girls who ran out of a house at the first shock were buried under a falling wall.

Budapest, Sept. 2 (A.P.)—The Countess Zamoyska, a Bourbon and a niece of former King Alfonso of Spain, gave birth to a daughter today. The former king, who served the other day as godfather to the son of Archduke Otto of Hapsburg and Princess Ileana of Roumania, will remain in Hungary to perform the same function for this new relative.

Naples, Italy, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—A "silent cannon" which emits no smoke or flame may become an innovation in the Italian artillery. The cannon was perfected by two Neapolitan engineers, Guglielmo de Luce and Ferruccio Guerra, former officers in the artillery. The device used in the experiments is a drum attached to the mouth of the gun. There is only a slight noise when the piece is fired.

Madrid, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—Delegates from all parts of the world gathered in Madrid tonight for the opening tomorrow of the international telegraph and radio congress, which meets every four years. About 3,000 propositions already have been presented for consideration by the congress, which will meet for about one month in the palace which formerly was the Spanish Senate. Whatever treaties may be agreed upon must be approved by the various governments.

Trostberg, Germany, Sept. 2 (A.P.). The German-American Himalaya expedition, which set out in July to climb the peak, Nanga Parbat, on the western frontier of Kashmir, India, which rises to an altitude of 26,000 feet, has been obliged to give up its objective because of severe illness among the party, which will return to Germany. This information was contained in a telegram from Fritz Bechtold, a member of the expedition, to his home here.

GOVERNOR UPHOLDS MINNESOTA STRIKE

Advises Farmers to Prevent Marketing Until State Executives' Session.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Minnesota farmers were advised tonight by Gov. Olson to withhold all nonperishable produce from the market until after the Midwest governor's conference next Friday at Sioux City, Iowa.

The governor's statement was issued following receipt of a telegram from Carlos W. Goltz, attorney for the Woodbury (Iowa) County Farmers Holiday Association, in which he was asked to issue a proclamation against marketing of produce.

Olson advised withholding of produce pending the probability that the governors' conference might take action of benefit to farmers.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—More intensive picketing of highways into Sioux City was ordered late today by Woodbury County leaders of farmers' nonselling "strike" which was confined to the territory around Sioux City in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota, involving five counties.

The center of interest returned to the original scene of action when Woodbury leaders ordered complete picket lines reestablished.

For the first time in days, five truck loads of livestock reached Sioux City when vigilance was relaxed, and the strike leaders at once announced that the highway blockade would be renewed.

Leaders said the blockade would be continued until next Friday when governors of eleven Middlewestern States have been called into a conference here, and that it would be kept in force indefinitely if some relief program is not formulated. The "strike" seeks to increase farm prices by withholding supplies from the markets.

Elsewhere the "strike" movement slumbered as members obeyed a "truce" order from Milo Reno, of Des Moines, president of the National Farmers Holiday Association.

Picketing continued in Plymouth County, directly north of here, where it was first started. Highways were also watched in Union County, S. Dak., and Dakota County, Nebr.

More than 100 strikers remained near Cherokee, Iowa, intent on solving a mysterious shooting early Wednesday, when fourteen holiday adherents were wounded by shotgun and rifle fire. They allowed produce to enter Cherokee, however, and turned their efforts to gathering evidence regarding the shooting.

John Chalmers, Iowa chairman of the National Farmers Holiday Association, announced all Iowa county leaders will meet in Des Moines September 6 to plan to extend the movement and to discuss proposals to be offered at the governors' meeting.

Richmond Refuses to Alter Record Name of Dead Man

Identity of Homicide Victim, Cremated Here, Creates Problem for Family and Department of Public Welfare.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Refusing an unusual request to alter the name of a dead man as entered in State records, the department of public welfare has ruled that a man must be buried under the name he had when he died.

The request, delivered verbally to the department through a local undertaker, followed receipt here of ashes from a Washington (D. C.) crematory, accompanied by a certificate from the Health Department of the District of Columbia, saying that the deceased man was Ted Rizer, 42, and that he died in Monroe, La., August 26 from "gunshot wound—homicide."

The ashes were buried in the Hebrew Cemetery here yesterday under that name.

Meanwhile it was discovered that on August 27 announcement was published here that Theodore H. Levy, 43, son of Mrs. Gertrude Hahn Levy, of Richmond, and the late Dr. H. L. Levy, had died in Monroe, La., on August 25.

Permission was sought to change the name in the records of the department from "Ted Rizer" to Theodore H. Levy.

Under the circumstances of record, there could be no change in the name as given in the official death report from Louisiana, but there apparently is no legal obstacle in the way of changing the name of the cemetery marker, it was learned at the department of law.

An alteration of the name, it was explained, would require local identification of the body, which is impossible since it was reduced to ashes before being brought here.

LOAN LEAGUE URGED TO AID HOME BANKS

Fort and Watson Outline Plans for Subscription of $134,000,000 in Stock

French Lick, Ind., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Members of the Home Loan Bank board today sought the cooperation of the United States Building and Loan League in the establishment of the new system of home loan banks.

Franklin W. Fort, of New Jersey, chairman, and other board members spoke at the fortieth annual convention of the league. They outlined plans for the opening of subscriptions books for $134,000,000 in capital stock of the twelve banks.

The chairman asked aggressive support for the stock subscription campaign, saying: "Nothing will do so much to start the banks off right as substantial initial subscriptions to stock."

When the board meets in Washington Tuesday, Chairman Fort said, it probably will take action on the question of whether registrars will be named in each district for the taking of stock subscriptions.

Senator Watson Speaks.

Indiana's senior senator, James E. Watson, who was active in the closing hours of the last session of Congress in behalf of the passage of the home loan bank act, was on the program at the league convention tonight. He predicted the end of second mortgages on small homes when the home loan bank law becomes entirely effective. He outlined in detail the operating plan for home loan banks and declared they will prove the salvation of property buyers and loan associations.

President Hoover sent a message to the convention in which he said establishment of the home loan bank system is "in a large measure a tribute to the fine underlying theory and efficiency of management of the building and loan associations of the United States."

Signs of Improvement.

Signs of business improvement, including a rise in stock prices and obliteration of two main causes for fear, were cited by Dr. C. O. Hardy, of the Brookings Institution, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Hardy pointed out that the instability of the European situation and the fear of America leaving the gold standard were two reasons for the depth of the 1932 business level. He said both these causes had now disappeared and that within a few months the level of 1931 again would be attained.

"Stock prices always improve first after a crisis," said Dr. Hardy. "The most hopeful feature today is the improvement in stocks and bonds, especially the bond market, which is less susceptible to flurries. This means more capital is being put back into the investment market. Capital will flow into fields much closer to the consumer than in the expansion period ended in 1929. A marked recovery in home building and in the automobile industry is at hand. The mistaken notion that we are overbuilt is refuted by the obvious fact that men as soon as they are employed will find a scarcity in small modern homes."

COURT STOPS 2 SONS OF CHAPLIN IN FILMS

Judge Rules They Can Not Be Signed Without Consent of Both Parents.

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Without touching on Charles Chaplin's claim that film careers for his two sons would be harmful to their characters, Superior Judge H. P. Wood ruled today the two boys, Charles, Jr., 7, and Sydney, 6, could not act in motion pictures without the consent of Chaplin and his divorced wife, Lita Grey Chaplin.

The decision ended a bitter contest between the film comedian and Mrs. Chaplin in which she sought court permission to sign the two boys in a motion picture portraying a situation similar to the real life controversy between their parents.

Chaplin contested her request on grounds that film careers at an early age would be harmful to his sons' characters. He also contended they did not need to work, as he had settled a $200,000 trust fund on them in the property agreement when the Chaplins were divorced. He sought an injunction restraining Mrs. Chaplin from signing a film contract for the boys.

Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys sought and received the appellate court's writ of prohibition halting procedure of the trial in Judge Wood's court, but Chaplin's attorneys succeeded in being granted permission to continue the hearing on the divorce decree amendment. It was upon the amendment that Judge Wood ruled.

E. T. McMurray, an uncle of Mrs. Chaplin and associated with her attorney, said Judge Wood's ruling should not be construed as a final victory for Chaplin. He said the judge's order read that employment of the children could only be by consent of both parents or consent and approval of the court and that Mrs. Chaplin probably will take the case to court again.

The writ of prohibition will be argued before the appellate court next Thursday, but attorneys said it probably will be dismissed.

A ten-day stay of execution was granted Mrs. Chaplin to decide whether she would appeal Judge Wood's decision.

Winchester Man's Body Is Recovered

Frinnfrock Was Drowned After Diving From Yacht in Potomac River.

The body of Donald Frinnfrock, of Winchester, Va., who was drowned Wednesday while swimming from a small yacht in the Potomac River near Broad Creek, was recovered yesterday by the crew of a tugboat.

Frinnfrock's body was first sighted by a Navy launch passing Fort Hunt, about 2 miles from the scene of the drowning. It was later picked up by the tug.

Frinnfrock, in company with a party of friends, was enjoying an outing aboard the yacht of Roy W. Richards, also of Winchester. Frinnfrock dived from the side of the craft and disappeared below the surface. He failed to reappear. Searchers dragged the water for some time, but were unable to locate the body.

RIO GRANDE FLOOD MENACES THOUSANDS of the International Bridge linking Del Rio with the Mexican city of Villa Acuna also was torn out.

The wreckage of houses, washed down from the ranch country upstream, crashed against railings of the new million-dollar International Bridge here. A railroad bridge a mile downstream was in imminent danger of going out.

The Eagle Pass power and water plant was partly under water and city officials said the city's normal supply of drinking water would be unavailable for several days.

The $1,500,000 power plant at the junction of the Rio Grande and Devils Rivers was damaged. Seven employes trapped on the roof were rescued by boat.

It was feared live stock losses would be heavy. The carcasses of many sheep and cattle floated down the Rio Grande and other streams.

It was believed the flood control system would avert serious damage in the fertile lower Rio Grande Valley when the crest reaches the vicinity of Brownsville Sunday night or Monday.

Mexican and American Government officials moved most of their records from buildings on the river front at Laredo to avoid damage.

An estimate of damage from Del Rio, Tex., placed the probable loss at several millions. The steam plant of the Central Power & Light Co. at the mouth of Devils River was damaged to the extent of more than $500,000.

The Southern Pacific Railroad's loss was heavy, but could not be calculated, as miles of track still were under water.

Villa Acuna, across the river from Del Rio, suffered more than it has from any flood in years. A few Americans were caught across the river when the International Bridge went out.

COAL MINERS REBEL; CREATE NEW UNION

"Rank and File" of Illinois Break With State President and Lewis.

Gillespie, Ill., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Open rebellion against their State and national union officers broke out today among the "rank and file" miners of Illinois, with 250 delegates claiming to represent 75 per cent of the State's 45,000 union diggers voting unanimously in Statewide convention to repudiate the present organization and form a new union.

This was the first break of the coal miners with John H. Walker, State union president, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and it followed efforts of the officials to put the new $5 basic wage contract into operation. The new wage scale was recently agreed upon by officials of the union and coal operators over the protest of the miners.

The delegates, announcing they were through with Walker and Lewis and what they termed their "machine-gun contract," turned at once to perfect their organization, elect provisional officers and extend an invitation to operators to enter separate wage scale negotiations with the miners.

Efforts, they said, would be made to enlist the Illinois diggers working under the $5 scale and miners of Indiana and other States in the new movement. The miners are demanding a contract, providing for their old scale of $6.10 a day, a 6-hour day and a 5-day week.

the presidential campaign. He said he was a resident of New Hampshire, was involved in bankruptcy proceedings there and would be unable to give time or attention to the suit.

Justice Alfred Frankenthaler directed that papers supporting Jackson's request be filed with the court tomorrow and indicated he would give an early decision.

The corporation complaint stated that Jackson, while he was an officer of the organization received $1,000,000 for the company from stockholders and only accounted for $646,142.86.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Pasadena, Calif., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Dr. Robert A. Millikan and two assistants were en route today to Winnipeg, Canada, where the first observations will be made in an 8,000-mile cosmic ray research expedition. Dr. Millikan, one of the foremost students of cosmic radiation, has just completed a series of tests at March Field, Calif., where Army pilots carried his highly sensitive self-recording electroscope to altitudes of around 23,000 feet. Seven such flights were made with the electroscope inclosed in a lead bail, which only cosmic rays could penetrate.

Chicago, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A gangster who once shot and killed Edward O'Donnell's goat after a quarrel was found slain on the Southwest Side today. He was Walter Zwolinski. He helped O'Donnell hustle beer in the same district several years ago, but lately had been chauffeur for George Downs, another liquor dealer.

Milwaukee, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Because Jack Walsh, proprietor of a soft drink parlor, tried to buy an automobile with 600 half-dollars, he was arrested in connection with a bank robbery. The police said today he had confessed receiving $876 of the loot obtained in the robbery of a messenger for the Badger State Bank Tuesday.

Kilbourn, Wis., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Frank Tylius, Kenosha bootlegger, who confessed to the police he plotted the slaying of Robert A. Wilson, real estate dealer, hanged himself with his belt in the Kilbourn City Jail early today.

Santa Monica, Calif., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Paul C. Clagstone, 61, Palo Alto, Calif., western manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, died in a private sanitarium today. He had been ill several months.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A man identified by police as Vito Graci, 32, who they said is wanted at Chester, Ill., for a $50,000 bank robbery, was arrested here today. Milton McDuffie, chief of the police bureau of identification, said Graci admitted his identity and confessed he had skipped bond of $40,000. The robbery occurred in 1930.

Morgan City, La., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Felix Olivier, known to police as an informer for prohibition agents, came home from a political rally last night, turned on the light and was shot to death through an open window. His unidentified assailant, hiding at the edge of the house, used a shotgun that sent numerous slugs through Olivier's chest and lungs.

The Business Upturn

Chicago Shipping Departments Operating at Capacity; Railroad Recalls Engineers and Firemen; Scrap Steel Price Advances.

(Associated Press.)

Business developments yesterday included:

Chicago—Shipping departments of a half dozen of the city's largest wholesale houses reported to the Association of Commerce that they are operating at capacity due to increased orders. Increases in steel mill output, household heating apparatus purchases and automobile sales also were noted.

New York—The Lackawanna Railroad recalled 51 engineers and firemen to work, indicated more would be returned later, and announced its traffic increased sharply in the last half of August.

Cleveland, Ohio—Orders pouring in so fast that inventories of goods were exhausted were reported by Industrial Rayon Corporation. Plants in Cleveland and at Covington, Va., are operating at 100 per cent capacity.

Philadelphia—Employment of about 5,000 idle hosiery workers over the country because of increased business was predicted by Emil Rieve, president of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers.

Sioux City, Iowa—Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, said here he believed the depression almost had run its course and that the business outlook was much brighter in all sections of the country.

Youngstown, Ohio—The price of steel scrap—increases in which generally are regarded as a better business indication—soared $1.50 a ton, bringing No. 1 heavy melting steel to $10.50. Steel manufacturers use the old metal as primary raw material.

Chicago—Ice cream manufacturers reported sales up 11 per cent for August over July—the first sizable advance in more than a year.

Petersburg, Va.—American Supply Inc., Tobacco Steamery, recalled 750 employes and announced operations for several months probably would be on a full-time basis.

Leroy, N. Y.—Two hundred employes were recalled to work at the General Foods Corporation plant here.

U. S. Credit Strong, Says Ballantine

Undersecretary of Treasury Finds Economies and Tax Laws Responsible.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Undersecretary Ballantine, of the Treasury, today said the recently enacted revenue law and economy measure had placed the public credit on an "unquestioned basis."

This statement was made in an address at the George Washington Bicentennial exercises in Federal Hall in honor of the 143d anniversary of the creation of the Treasury.

"The provisions for additional revenue and steps taken for reduction in Government expenditures have constituted the first major step in the reconstruction program to meet the depression," Ballantine said. "The public credit, which is the particular charge of the Treasury Department, has been put on an unquestioned basis. It is the keystone of the arch supporting the entire business structure."

FALL IN U. S. TRADE WITH RUSSIA SHOWN

Germany and England Gain in Soviet Commerce as America Loses.

Moscow, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Renewed indications of the sharp decline in trade between the United States and Soviet Russia were found today in Russia's foreign trade figures for the first five months of 1932, which showed that purchases in America had dropped to 16,678,000 rubles from 131,504,000 in the corresponding period a year ago. (The nominal value of a ruble is 51½ cents.)

Imports from Germany and England greatly increased in the period covered by the statistics.

The United States bought 5,562,000 rubles in Soviet goods this year compared with 8,507,000 in the first five months of 1931.

Germany continued to be the largest seller to Soviet Russia, the purchases there amounting to 148,767,000 rubles, against 135,332,000 a year ago. England was next with 47,627,000, against 25,761,000 in 1931, and the United States was third.

England was the best Soviet customer, taking 54,867,000 rubles in Russian goods compared with 75,723,000 in 1931. Germany was next with 44,195,000, against 65,514,000. It was noteworthy that purchases of both nations decreased.

Russia finished the five months with an adverse balance of 100,018,000 rubles, reflecting the continued effect of the world depression.

This country was able to export in the period under consideration 235,775,000 rubles in goods, against 309,413,000 last year, and the consequent necessity of reducing purchases abroad cut imports to 335,793,000 rubles from 441,612,000. Russia finished the year 1931 with an adverse balance of 293,824,000 rubles.

Soviet Industrial Drive Falling Behind Schedule

Moscow, Sept. 2 (U.P.).—The Soviet industrial program is suffering a serious setback.

Official figures on industrial production for the last six months disclosed a growth of 19½ per cent, as compared to the same period last year, but the progress was far below the schedule on which the government plans to complete the great five-year plan in four and one-quarter years.

The Kremlin had ordered an increase in production by 36 per cent, but the failure to come up to this schedule so far made it virtually certain that the original estimate can not be attained.

The production in light industries, which supply the every-day needs of the population, is particularly backward, showing an increase of only 12½ per cent. The output of industries under the commissariat of supplies, including such important articles as food and clothing, showed a growth of only 6 per cent over last year.

Much of this backwardness has been attributed to a sharp decline in the output of the famous Donetz Basin coal fields, which normally provide more than two-thirds of the country's coal.

Coincident with the great increase in food prices this week, the foreign newspaper correspondents in Moscow today were placed on strict food rations. The action presumably was due to the food shortage which has forced prices up as much as 300 per cent in recent days.

The quota of food assigned to correspondents includes two pounds of bread and about a pint of milk daily; fifteen pounds of meat per month; three pounds of butter per month; seven pounds of sugar per month; two pounds of laundry soap and two pieces of toilet soap per month.

V. F. W. CONVENTION PICKS ADM. COONTZ

Milwaukee Selected for National Encampment of Group in 1933.

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States concluded their thirty-third national encampment here today with selection of Milwaukee, Wis., as the '33 convention city.

Officers elected for the coming year were Admiral Robert E. Coontz, Washington, D. C., U. S. N., retired, commander in chief; James E. Van Zandt, Altoona, Pa., senior vice commander in chief; Fred T. Windsor, St. Joseph, Mo., junior vice commander in chief; R. B. Handy, jr., Kansas City, reelected quartermaster general; Scott Squyres, of Oklahoma City, Okla., judge advocate general; Harvey W. Snyder, Denver, reelected surgeon general; the Rev. Claude E. Ireland, Minneapolis, reelected chaplain.

Women's Auxiliary Elects.

The women's auxiliary elected Consuelo de Coe, of Sacramento, wife of the retiring commander in chief, national president. Other auxiliary officers elected were Mrs. Julia Pitcock, Cleveland, Ohio, senior vice president; Mrs. Lola Eastman, Chicago, chaplain; Mrs. Alice Burdick, Minneapolis, Minn., conductress; Mrs. Grace Davis, Kansas City, Mo., treasurer, and Mrs. Mina Cashman, of Superior, Wis., guard.

Shortly before adjourning a proposal was made for the encampment to take a straw ballot on Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Republican and Democratic nominees for President. After a brief flurry, during which delegates declared the organization should refrain from expressing itself politically, the motion was killed.

Home Head Will Resign.

Long Beach, Calif., New Orleans and Louisville invited the delegates to be their guests in the 1934 encampment. Honolulu and Paris, France, posts extended invitations for 1935.

Robert G. Woodside, president of the board of trustees of the Veterans of Foreign Wars' Eaton Rapids, Wis., National Home for Widows and Orphans, startled the encampment when he served notice he would resign at the October board meeting if Joseph Klinka, of Cicero, Ill., became a board member. Klinka was elected.

A resolution memorializing Congress against any change in the self-government of Hawaii also was approved today.

PILOTS CHEAT DEATH IN CRASH IN RACE

women's record of Billie Brown, of El Monte, Calif., by 2,800 feet. Her 4-year-old daughter, Geraldine Anne, was with her in the plane when she made the leap.

The women's closed-course dash quickly developed into an amusing cruise as pilot after pilot lost the pylons in the gathering dusk and roamed aimlessly about the course. The planes were handicapped according to speed, the slowest ship taking off first.

The winner, Miss Klingensmith, furnished the only authentic racing note in the race, and she banked her speedy monoplane low and steep about the pylons in a manner creditable to male pilots. Her average speed for the three laps of the 10-mile race was only about 60 miles an hour, but her speed on the last lap was in excess of 100 miles an hour.

The average speeds were cut because of the handicapping and long, slow racing starts. Miss Klingensmith took off seventh in a field of eight planes.

Second was Edith Foltz, of Portland, Oreg., who took off second; third, Helen Richey of Pittsburgh, taking off fourth; fourth, Mary Sansom, Hartford, Conn., taking off fifth; fifth, Helen MacCloskey, Pittsburgh, taking off sixth, and Mrs. Rae Trader, Pittsburgh, taking off first. Other entrants were Jasemine Goddard and Mrs. Evelyn Deseversky, both of New York.

Ray Moore and Robert L. Hall joined the select company of Jimmy Doolittle, Capt. Roscoe Turner and Ben O. Howard when they qualified their racing planes for the 100-mile closed course speed classic Labor Day at speeds in excess of the necessary 200 miles an hour.

Moore, who brought his silver colored all metal monoplane from Alameda, Calif., hurtled it over the 3-kilometer course for an average of 237.389 miles an hour. His fastest speed was 254 miles an hour, which was cut by the wind on his return trip to 222 miles an hour.

Hall, Springfield, Mass., designer, sent his gull wing monoplane twice over the course at an average speed of 254.563 miles an hour. His fastest time, made down wind, was 271 miles an hour. He intends to make another trial after making propeller adjustments.

Dry Agents Seize 43 At Huntsville, Ala.

Huntsville, Ala., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Prohibition agents today arrested 43 persons here including four leaders in Huntsville's business and social circles.

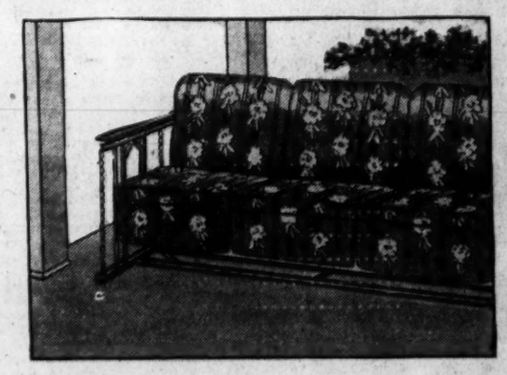

W. H. Hutchens, former mayor and owner of the largest hardware store in northern Alabama, was arrested with his three sons and five employes, after agents working under Sol W. Miller, deputy prohibition administrator, charged distilleries had been purchased at the Hutchens store. The agents said the firm had manufactured the stills and sold them to under-cover men, one for $38 and another for $50.

HOOVER TELLS NEED OF FIRE PREVENTION

Asks That Week of Oct. 9 Be "Occasion of Special Significance."

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday proclaimed the week of October 9 as fire prevention week, and urged that "it be made this year an occasion of special significance."

The Chief Executive said the loss of thousands of human lives, in addition to property valued at $500,000,000, should be "scrupulously avoided." The proclamation follows:

"In recommending the customary public observance of fire prevention week, I wish to urge that it be made this year an occasion of special significance.

"The deplorable loss of thousands of human lives and the property waste of approximately $500,000,000 caused each year by fires should be scrupulously avoided. The American per capita loss now is nearly double that of twenty years ago, and constitutes a challenge to our efforts that no citizen can afford to ignore. It is a drain on our created resources which we should strive to eliminate, as it is largely preventable.

"The observance of national fire prevention week should serve to arouse the attention and stimulate the action of all citizens in preventing fire waste.

"Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week of October 9, 1932, to be observed as fire prevention week.

"To the many organizations that have taken an interest in this subject I especially appeal that they unite on a definite plan of cooperation, to the end that all citizens may be aroused to their individual responsibilities."

Retired Farmer Dies From Excessive Heat

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 2.—Excessive heat claimed the life of John T. Lanham, 74, a retired farmer of Bridgeport, today at his home.

Mrs. Lanham found him lying unconscious across the sill of an upstairs window he had been puttying on her return from a shopping trip. She called for aid, but Lanham died within twenty minutes. Later Mrs. Lanham collapsed and was reported in a serious condition. Besides his widow, Lanham leaves a daughter, Mrs. W. T. Haines, of McConnellsburg, Pa.

Idahoan Rejects Farm Parley Bid

Gov. Ross Says Meeting of State Executives Will Prove Futile.

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Gov. C. Ben Ross said today he would not attend the conference of governors of agricultural States called by Gov. Warren Green of South Dakota at Sioux City, Iowa, September 9.

Replying to the South Dakota executive, Gov. Ross said:

"In my judgment only Congress has authority or power to improve the financial condition of the country. Withholding commodities from the market to increase prices will not help so long as ten or eleven million of our people are idle and have nothing with which to purchase necessities of life.

"The country is suffering from lack of money or credit. Since our credit is impaired beyond redemption, the circulating medium must be increased several billion dollars in order that factories may sell their products and employ men who in turn consume the products of the farm.

"In my judgment anything the governors could do would be futile. I cannot attend the convention."

3 Arrested in Plot On Charity Worker

Two Policemen and Dentist Charged in Abducting Overseer of Poor.

Charles City, Iowa, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Charged with conspiracy in connection with the abduction of Miss Marion Stull, Floyd County overseer of the poor, two police officers and a dentist were arrested here today. They were Chief of Police Don Shannon, Officer Harvey Meinzer and Dr. P. H. Koenig.

Miss Stull was taken from her office in the City Hall August 22 by a group of dissatisfied workers on city projects. She was struck several blows and then taken to a point near New Hampton, where she was released with a warning not to return to Charles City.

Conspiracy information filed by State Agent Hi Yackey alleged the two officers knew of the abduction plan and purposely were absent from the City Hall. Koenig is alleged to have encouraged some of the abductors during a meeting in his office.

All three were released on $1,000 bonds after waiving preliminary hearing.

U. S. Firm Official Stirs Up Filipinos

Makes Protest of Interference of Native Bureau in Power Strike.

Manila, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A protest by the Manila Electric Co., an American concern, against alleged interference by a Philippine government bureau in a minor strike of the company's employes brought widespread repercussions today in the Legislature and among Filipino officials.

Representative Francisco Varona, majority floor leader, declared in the House that James C. Rockwell, manager of the company, in making public his letter of protest, had "disturbed the calm seas of American-Philippine political reactions," and urged his recall from the islands.

"The Legislature hardly can grant franchises to American firms when the islands are independent if the company continues to act overbearingly," asserted Varona.

Rockwell yesterday refused to obey instructions to attend a conference regarding the strike issued by Hermengildo Cruz, director of the insular bureau of labor.

LABOR DAY EXODUS IN FULL SWING HERE

(Associated Press.)

A general exodus to vacation resorts was on last night with President Hoover heading the list of high governmental officials leaving their desks until after Labor Day.

For much of the country, the Weather Bureau foresaw a relief from abnormally high temperatures with a prospect that this holiday weekend would be marked by showers in many localities. Although forecasts for Monday were still uncertain, showers were predicted almost generally today with a prospect of more rain on tomorrow in the Atlantic States.

As though to confirm these prophecies, thunder reverberated and rain fell as the President left the White House yesterday afternoon for his Rapidan camp. The storm was so severe in the mountain section that telephone connections were disrupted at several points along his route, but it brought relief from the extreme heat of the last three days.

Where Officials Are.

Most of the President's official family already were away from Washington, while other dignitaries followed his example and left yesterday to spend the extended week-end in cooler spots.

Vice President Curtis is visiting a daughter near Providence, R. I. Secretary Stimson, after a stay in the Adirondacks, has gone to his country home, Highhold, at Huntington, Long Island, and will be there over Labor Day. Attorney General Mitchell likewise is vacationing on Long Island.

Secretary Hyde is en route to Shenandoah, Iowa, to speak today. Secretary Chapin is in Maine and Secretary Mills in Saratoga. Postmaster General Brown expects to stay here.

After addressing the International Astronomical Union today at Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., Secretary Adams will go to his summer home at Minot, Mass., for yachting and tennis over the holiday. Secretary Hurley will rest at Belmont, his country home, near Leesburg, Va. Secretary Doak speaks in Syracuse, N. Y., on Labor Day.

Guest List at Rapidan.

Office associates said Secretary Wilbur, who is expected to return to Washington tomorrow morning from an extended Western trip, probably will spend the holiday catching up with the business accumulated during his absence.

Like most of the Government officials, millions throughout the land looked forward to a week-end of relaxation, perhaps the summer's last respite from the cares of the daily task.

Mrs. Hoover preceded her husband to the Rapidan Camp in the Blue Ridge Mountains. Their guest list will include Adolph C. Miller, of the Federal Reserve Board, and Mrs. Miller; Galen Tait, of Baltimore, collector of internal revenue, and Mrs. Tait; M. S. Sherman, editor of the Hartford (Conn.) Courant, and Mrs. Sherman; W. K. Kellogg, the cereal manufacturer and his grandson, John Kellogg; Mark Sullivan, journalist; Mrs. Sullivan and their daughter; A. W. Shaw, of Chicago; Mrs. Stark McMullen, a friend and aid of Mrs. Hoover; French Strother, one of the President's secretaries; Mrs. Strother and their son; Lieut. Butler, a White House aid; Mrs. Butler and their two children, and Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician.

Rudy Vallee Signs Pact of Separation

Couple Parts on Friendly Terms After Vain Reconciliation Effort.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Though Rudy Vallee crooned "Say It Isn't So" into his megaphone in a radio broadcast last night, a short time later he went to the offices of his attorney, where he signed a formal agreement of separation from his wife, the former Fay Webb.

Hyman Bushel, attorney for both Vallee and his bride of a year, announced today that the two had concluded the agreement after a conference lasting several hours in which he tried to reconcile them. Clarence Webb, police chief of Santa Monica, Calif., Mrs. Vallee's father, was present when the papers were signed.

A monetary and real estate settlement which the lawyer described as "very fair," was agreed upon and the two parted amicably, Vallee leaving for Atlantic City, where he has an engagement, and Mrs. Vallee going home to pack her bags.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Purple grapes, red grapes and white grapes—or Concords, Delawares and Niagaras, respectively, as the marketers call them—are among the newest comers to the food stands and shops about Washington. This week has seen a plentiful supply of grapes arriving, and receipts will continue for two or three weeks to come. "Fair" is the grade the fruit dealers give to the 1932 crop of grapes. As the earlier grapes are usually chosen for jelly making, the price of 75 cents to $1 for a half-bushel is interesting to housewives.

The water front food-selling places, where the boats, the water ripples and the white sails did what they could to dissipate the terrific heat of the week, were more than unusually attractive to the Meanderer in this late summer survey. More than a dozen of the boats about the wharf were piled with watermelons. A quarter—sometimes less—was buying any of the best quality watermelons, direct from boatman to customer. One schooner from the Rappahannock country—450 miles by water—brought perfect melons, as the colored captain's insistent plugging showed, for 25 cents apiece. Today the number of melon boats will be larger, as Saturdays are the wharf's busiest days. Saturday of last week saw 40 watermelon boats berthed at this market. As plentiful supply will doubtless lower prices, the customer who buys his melon on the water front today may not have to spend 25 cents for it.

Fresh fish, costing very little, may be bought directly from the fishing boats at the water front. Seven boats with fish cargoes had berths at the water front one day this week. Trout, croakers, bluefish and clams were selling from one boat—canoe, the captain called it. Clams brought only 1 cent each, and the other fish sold at six pounds for a quarter. This typical fish-carrying boat came from New Point, about 15 miles above Norfolk.

In a big, downtown fish market, where the fish are in larger variety, buried in ice, the Meanderer found swordfish, a good choice for flavor and boneless quality; speckled trout, Boston mackerel, rock fish, crab meat and flakes—the last named the best quality and lowest in price for many years. A year-around delicacy offered by this fish shop is frogs' legs. A pair of meaty froglegs sells for 35 cents.

Elderberries from Arlington County, Va., such as have been used time after time by Washingtonians for their jellies and wines, are offered for as little as 5 cents a quart by a veteran marketer, colored, in an outside food stand downtown. "Ah only wants 60 cents foh that pail of elduhberries," the seasoned salesman pointed out. "That pail" contained 12 quarts of berries. More interesting than his wares was this 63-year-old marketer, who has sold food in Washington for nearly all his years. "Evah since ah could tote a 2-quaht pail of watah" was the answer he gave to the Meanderer's inquiry as to his length of time in business.

Red pulms from California were attracting buyers. They sell at 2 pounds for 15 cents.

Winter banana apples from the State of Washington were among unusual fruits offered in a centrally located downtown market. Their high-hat price is 50 cents a dozen.

Soon hardy plants for fall planting in garden and rock garden will be found in plant-selling places about the markets. Sweet Williams, pinks and many sedums for rock gardens will be among the special offerings of one colored woman gardener at an outside shop near the door of a centrally located market. Her plants are to cost not more than 10 cents each. Just now she has brilliant displays of marigolds, zinnias and other cut flowers for 15 cents a bunch. Her exquisite lavender ageratum mixed with lemon verbena in 15-cent nosegays is irresistible to flower-loving shoppers.

OUR DAILY FOOD.

By COLONEL GOODBODY

"To preserve children: Take one large grassy field, half a dozen children, two or three small dogs, and a pinch of brook and pebbles. Mix the children and dogs well together, stirring constantly. Pour the brook over the pebbles; sprinkle the field with flowers; spread over all a deep blue sky, and bake in the sun. When brown, remove the children, and set them to cool in a bathtub."

And that, though I'm sorry, I don't know the author, is a good working recipe.

Mrs. Rowena Schmidt Carpenter, of the United States Bureau of Home Economics, has this to say on the subject:

"Growing children especially need foods that supply building materials. Milk contains efficient proteins for children, since it provides them with the various kinds that are very useful in making muscle. * * * And milk is valuable for its vitamin and mineral content. Milk is especially important when incomes are reduced.

"In a restricted diet," Mrs. Carpenter continues, "there is great likelihood of deficiencies in some of the very necessary materials which promote growth and development of children. For instance, calcium, phosphorus and iron are three minerals very important in the diet of a growing child. Milk is the best source of calcium, and most fruits, vegetables and meat, as well as milk, supply phosphorus. Iron is likely to be low unless the child eats egg yolk, green vegetables, prunes, raisins and liver.

"Whole milk may be consumed either fresh, evaporated, or dried, and it is relatively inexpensive in all parts of the country. The same is true just now of eggs. Many cuts of meat are low at present, and, although calves' liver is in the delicate class, beef and lamb liver offer similar nutritive value and are lower in price."

Mrs. Carpenter emphasizes that children need raw and quickly cooked vegetables. The variety will not be quite so great when food money is limited, she points out, but the results can be the same in maintaining the well-being of children. The choice of vegetables should be governed by the locality and season of the year, for cost is usually based on these two factors. Cabbage is inexpensive the year 'round, and canned tomatoes serve practically the same purpose as fresh tomatoes, for they keep their vitamin content better than most vegetables when heated. Tomatoes also are interchangeable with citrus fruits. Spinach and other greens should be served frequently.

"KISS FORTE" WINS POST RECIPE PRIZE

Mrs. Garner Has Delicious Way of Preparing Dish of Peaches.

With the peach season at its height, those persons searching for a novel method of preparation will welcome the chance to try the recipe which won this week's Post $5 recipe prize.

The recipe is for a dish called "Kiss Forte," submitted by Mrs. Harry S. Garner, of 4102 New Hampshire avenue northwest. Her creation is a dessert which should add to the seasonal enjoyment of the peach.

To be eligible for the prizes awarded weekly by The Post formulas for food creations which are submitted should use some ingredients sold by the advertisers of the Saturday Food Page of The Post.

Mrs. Garner's recipe follows:

3 egg whites
1 cup granulated sugar (Sanitary)
½ teaspoonful vanilla
½ teaspoonful vinegar
Elberta peaches (A. & P.)

Beat whites until stiff, gradually add sugar and continue to beat, then add vinegar and vanilla. Grease a 9-inch layer cake tin. Fill in mixture and bake in a slow oven (250 degrees Fahrenheit) for 45 minutes. When cool place Elberta peaches on top, serve with whipped cream. Serves six.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Baked Cheese and Macaroni.

2 cups macaroni or spaghetti broken in small pieces
4 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons butter
2 cups milk
¾ pound American cheese
1 teaspoon salt

Cook the macaroni or spaghetti in 2 quarts of boiling salted water until tender. Drain in a strainer and pour cold water over it to prevent the pieces from sticking together. Make a sauce with the flour, butter, milk and salt. Grate or cut the cheese into the sauce, reserving a little to grate over the top of the dish.

Place the macaroni in a buttered baking dish in alternate layers with the cheese sauce. Scatter the extra grated cheese over the top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake until the sauce and macaroni are hot through and the crumbs are brown.

Devil's Food Cake.

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs (1 white saved for icing)
1 cup milk
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1¾ cups sifted soft-wheat flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt

Cream the butter and the sugar. Add the well-beaten eggs and mix well. Sift the dry ingredients and add to the first mixture alternately with the milk. Add the chocolate, which has been melted over steam, and the vanilla, and beat until well mixed with the batter. Bake in a greased pan, in a sheet, for 35 minutes, at a temperature between 300 to 325 degrees Fahrenheit. Cover lightly with powdered sugar and serve. Or if preferred, bake the cake in two layers and ice with vanilla frosting.

In this cake mixture, sour milk may be used in place of sweet milk. In this case, dissolve ½ teaspoon soda in 1 teaspoon water and add at the same time with the sour milk. The chocolate may also be increased by 1 square, if a strong chocolate flavor is desired.

Coffee Gelatin With Cream.

2 tablespoons gelatin
½ cup sugar
1 quart hot coffee
Pinch of salt

Dissolve the gelatin in about 1 tablespoon of cold water and combine it with the sugar and hot coffee. Serve with whipped cream or with plain cream. If desired, just before the gelatin sets combine it with unwhipped cream and let stand until firm.

Blackberry Flummery.

2 cups blackberry juice, from canned or cooked blackberries.
½ cup sugar, if juice is unsweetened.
3 tablespoons farina, or 4 tablespoons cornstarch.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Heat the blackberry juice. Mix the sugar and the farina or cornstarch and the salt, and add to the blackberry juice. Cook in a double boiler for fifteen or twenty minutes, or until the mixture thickens and the raw starchy taste disappears. Remove from the stove, add the lemon juice, and beat well. Serve the flummery cold with plain or whipped cream.

VIOLATORS OF ZONING LAW FACING ARREST

Several Arlington Builders Will Be Prosecuted on Permit Charges.

Prosecution of all builders in Arlington County who have begun construction of houses without having obtained a permit as provided in the zoning ordinance is to be started immediately, County Manager R. S. Braden said yesterday. He stated that he already has three definite cases but before warrants are issued he will confer with Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas.

Mr. Braden said that two of the three are among the largest builders in Arlington County.

This information has been obtained, he explained, from a survey of building going on in the county and checking the number of permits for construction which have been issued.

The ordinance provides that where violations have resulted the penalty is a fine not less than $10 nor more than $100 unless the violation has been wilful and if so found, a fine of $250 is provided. Should it further develop that the zoning ordinance has been violated in so far as set backs for buildings are provided a further fine of $10 per day results and continues until the correction is made.

Christian Science Churches

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Isaiah 64:8. "Now, O Lord, Thou art our Father; we are the clay, and Thou our potter; and we all are the work of Thy hand." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace." (Psalms 37:37.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man's genuine selfhood is recognizable only in what is good and true. Man is neither self-made nor made by mortals. God created man." (Page 294.)

WALKER AND ROOSEVELT.

Mayor Walker of New York takes the short and bold cut out of his difficulties by resigning and announcing that he is a candidate for re-election. He takes from Gov. Roosevelt the opportunity to remove him, and thus leaves undecided the question whether or not he deserved removal. That Gov. Roosevelt would have removed the mayor is generally assumed; and the mayor has no doubt on the point.

A very skillful presentation of his case is made by Mayor Walker in a public statement. He lays stress upon the argument that he should have been given the protection that is afforded to every defendant in a case at law; to compel witnesses to confront him and be cross-examined; to have witnesses called in his defense; to have access to all records of the investigating committee, &c. These are claims which appeal to the average man as just. Mayor Walker also emphasizes the opinion of the Supreme Court that it was without power to restrain Gov. Roosevelt, although it criticized his conduct of the examination. The mayor advises his fellow citizens that Gov. Roosevelt was about to "lynch" him, and he broadly hints that political considerations had a bearing upon the governor's attitude.

Beyond doubt, Mayor Walker has acted after consultation with the wise men of Tammany Hall. His statement breathes political war against Roosevelt. Taking into account the events at the Democratic national convention and Tammany's support of Alfred E. Smith, together with Smith's refusal to become reconciled with Roosevelt, it seems now that Tammany is preparing to make the Walker case a major issue in New York City for the double purpose of vindicating Walker and defeating Roosevelt.

Gov. Roosevelt is left in an embarrassing position by Walker's move. If the governor was forming the intention to exonerate Walker he could not have said so during the examination, and of course it would be useless to say so now. He must go through the campaign without enjoying any advantage he might have obtained by removing or exonerating Walker. He loses all hope of Tammany support and does not gain the credit which he would have gained in the North and South by removing Walker. Gov. Roosevelt may find some consolation, however, in the fact that the Walker case will no longer interfere with his campaign plans. He can now prepare for his trip through the West, where the Walker case is comparatively unimportant.

It is very desirable from a national point of view that Gov. Roosevelt should discuss national and international questions without further delay. The country has no idea where he stands on several vital matters. What is his attitude toward the reconstruction program bearing President Hoover's name, part of which has been made law with the aid of Democrats in Congress, and part of which is due to the initiative of the President? Would Gov. Roosevelt, if elected President, carry forward that program, or does he disapprove of it? This question ought to be answered, for it affects the public welfare. Voters are waiting for information. If Gov. Roosevelt has plans for expediting national economic recovery he should make them known, so that they may be compared with the Hoover program. Both Presidential candidates have said that economic questions rank above all others in importance, and yet Gov. Roosevelt has barely touched upon them.

Mayor Walker can count upon the redoubled energy of Tammany Hall in his behalf. If he should run for re-election this fall every effort will be made to capitalize the alleged attempt to "lynch" him. The Democratic ticket in New York City will bear the scratches of the Tiger's claws in any event.

TRAFFIC SAFETY.

Traffic Director Van Duzer's survey of law observance on the part of Washington motorists shows very unsatisfactory results. Twenty-five per cent of the drivers were found to disregard simple traffic regulations designed to keep the streets safe. Since these observations were necessarily limited, it may be assumed that the percentage of law violators on Washington streets is considerably larger than the tests indicate.

Washington drivers are as a whole notoriously careless. The number who deliberately intend to disregard safety regulations is probably small. But hundreds of motorists turn left from a right lane of traffic, cut in front of other cars, stop without signaling, or disregard traffic signs simply because they have not learned to drive with caution. These drivers are just as great a menace on the streets as if they deliberately flouted the law. But they are not criminals and have no malicious intentions. What they need is a few sharp lessons in safe driving. About the only way in which such lessons can be taught is by vigorous enforcement of traffic regulations. Most motorists know the safety code. They would be more careful in observing it if they knew it was being strictly enforced.

In one respect, however, the situation may not be as bad as Mr. Van Duzer's survey would indicate. Nearly two-thirds of the observed violations were "speeding," that is, exceeding the District's 22-mile-per-hour speed limit. If an accurate test could be made it would probably be found that nearly every driver exceeds that limit frequently, if not every time he drives. No effort is made to keep motorists within the 22-mile limit. As a practical matter traffic officials recognize that the 22-mile rate is slower than is necessary for safety on Washington's broad streets. On such streets as Connecticut and Pennsylvania avenues traffic moves regularly at about 25, 27 or even 30 miles per hour with the apparent approbation of the officers who are directing it.

Technically the speed limit is uniform throughout the District (with some exceptions in the outlying sections), but every one knows that it is safer to drive 30 miles per hour on a broad avenue when it is not congested than it is to drive 20 miles per hour on a narrow street where children are playing. Of course, the traffic department can not have a different speed limit for every type of street. Consequently, the driving public must be allowed a reasonable degree of discretion. When motorists exercise that discretion in a careful and safe manner it is hardly accurate to put them in the class of lawbreakers.

If attention is concentrated on those drivers who are in fact reckless and a potential source of accidents, far more can be accomplished than through rigid enforcement of technical regulations which may or may not have a direct bearing on public safety.

SPEAKING OF THE WEATHER.

Long-needed rain descended upon the Capital yesterday as a double blessing, to end the protracted dry spell in this region and to relieve the city from several days of excessive heat. August went out in a blaze, after a summer that on the whole was unusually comfortable.

The August climax, however, rather spoiled the record. When hot days are followed by breezeless nights with slight fall in temperature a large proportion of the population suffers great discomfort. Official records showing 100 degrees on the official thermometers means that along the sun-baked pavements it is 5 to 10 degrees hotter. The thunderstorm brought cooling winds even before rain finally began falling in a gentle, reviving shower, quite different from the storm that the thunder and lightning seemed to presage.

Washington, like many other localities this summer, has become much interested in the advancement made in air conditioning plants and their adaptation to the requirements of small dwellings and even individual rooms. It is not hard to foresee the day when this newest comfort will be transformed into an American necessity. No apartment house or home will be built without a cooling apparatus. The housewife looking for an apartment not long ago asked regarding refrigeration; it will not be long before she will demand cooled air in summer.

A BLOW TO BANKING.

When President Hoover signed the home loan bank bill he sharply criticized the Glass-Borah amendment attached to it. His message was accompanied by a statement from the Comptroller of the Currency that the amendment was a "backward step in currency and banking legislation." Opinion in the financial world was generally agreed that Senator Borah's attempt to bring about inflation of the currency was futile as well as unwise.

This week's Federal Reserve report gives opportunity to study the early results of this so-called inflationary measure. The volume of money in circulation increased $7,000,000 last week, which is much less than normal for this time of year. During the final week of August, 1931, the increase in money outstanding was $39,000,000. For the same week in 1930 it was $63,000,000 and for 1929 $81,000,000. This showing confirms the opinion of Treasury officials that the Glass-Borah amendment will not bring about inflation. Perhaps Senators Borah and Glass can now be persuaded to discard the idea that the mere creation of more paper money in bank vaults can increase the purchasing power of the people.

While the measure was under consideration The Post on several occasions pointed out that it would not add to the total currency in the hands of the public, but would substitute national bank notes for Federal Reserve notes. The Glass-Borah provision allows national banks to use certain Government bonds as the basis for the issuance of currency, thus enabling them to obtain ready cash at less expense than it can be secured through the Federal Reserve system. Instead of adding to the total volume of currency in use, the banks are converting their Government bonds into circulating medium and retiring their Federal Reserve notes. The volume of Federal Reserve notes fell $10,785,000 last week in spite of the slight increase in the total currency outstanding.

Even though the Glass-Borah amendment does not bring about inflation, it is evident that it will weaken the Federal Reserve system. By encouraging national banks to issue currency and discouraging the use of Federal Reserve notes the control of the Reserve over the volume of currency is impaired. The currency needs of the country are left to the discretion of several thousand agencies instead of largely in the hands of the Federal Reserve board. If this policy were carried to the extreme, much of the progress that has been made in banking because of the Federal Reserve act would be lost.

Congress should give special attention to the operation of this measure between now and December. If the present tendency toward substituting bank notes for Federal Reserve notes continues (and there is every indication that it will) the Glass-Borah amendment ought to be repealed before any serious damage is done.

THE FIREMEN'S PARADE.

Labor Day each year witnesses the unique firemen's parade in Washington. It enlists the interest and support of every business man and resident in the National Capital metropolitan area and draws larger crowds each succeeding year from nearby States. Seven of these States were represented in the parade on Pennsylvania avenue last year. Each of the visiting fire companies brought with it many residents of its home town. They took advantage of the opportunity to see the sights of the Capital, and the acquaintances made with residents here helped to promote business on both sides.

But more important has been the part played by the annual gathering in fostering a close, working friendship between the Washington Fire Department and the departments of other cities, especially in contiguous Maryland and Virginia. Fire Chief George S. Watson, under whose administration the efficiency of the department has steadily increased, has aptly described these as Washington's second line of defense against the fire demon. There is no boundary line between the District and Maryland or Virginia when it comes to fighting against the destruction of life and property by flames. Washington companies are ever ready to respond to calls for aid from hard-pressed suburban companies. Frequently, when potential conflagrations here have drained the residential sections of fire fighting apparatus, efficient and well-equipped volunteer companies from nearby towns have come in, ready to co-operate.

A civic show which has such concrete and worthwhile results has more than amusement value. Washington welcomes the forthcoming visit of her "second line of defense" and is proud of the efficiency of each and every unit.

But nobody objects when Jupe Pluvius makes a bear raid and knocks 20 points off of Kiosk Common.

Editor Al Smith could write a powerful editorial on the Walker case, taking either side.

The troubles on the Rapidan have sombre rivals in the troubles on the Hudson.

CONGRESS ELECTIONS

Washington Correspondence of the Wall Street Journal.

One of the possibilities which political observers here are noting carefully is that the forthcoming election might result in victory for President Hoover while at the same time giving the Democratic party a majority in the Senate.

There are 32 senatorial seats in question in the November election. Of these seventeen are now held by Republicans and fifteen by Democrats.

Democrats are almost sure to retain all but one of these fifteen seats. Many of them are in the South, where a return of a Democrat is certain. Others are in States like New York and Ohio, where the Democratic incumbents appear rather strongly entrenched. One of the seats is in Kansas, where Democrats claim victory, but where Republicanism is rather traditional.

Of the seventeen Republican seats some half dozen or more may be regarded as in extreme danger, while a few others might be claimed by Democratic candidates.

In the present Senate the Republicans have a bare majority, with 48 out of 95 members. Therefore, if they lose any of the seats now held without regaining any, the control of the Senate will go to the Democrats.

There is also the possibility of the House being controlled by the party which loses the Presidency, but this is not so strong. All of the 435 House seats are to be voted on and the sentiment which swings the Presidency very likely will swing the House with it.

When the Republicans have carried the Presidency overwhelmingly, they have also carried a large House majority with them. If they should carry the Presidency by narrow margin this year, they would probably carry the House in the same proportion. The Democrats will have similar expectations.

In the close race of 1916, Wilson was elected, but the Republicans apparently won the House by a narrow margin. However, before the House organized the situation changed and the Democrats were in control.

Something Wrong.

POST HASTE

Opinions differ as to whether it was a wide crack through which Mayor Walker escaped—or wise.

"Japan-Manchukuo treaty is drafted." Horrible thought! Suppose Henry Pu-Yi should refuse to sign!

The patience of the neutral nations seeking to avoid a senseless war between Bolivia and Paraguay is phenomenal. They may yet devise something that will be acceptable to one otf the bellicose nacioncitos.

Germany demands the right to match French armaments, knowing it will not be granted, and would she be embarrassed to raise the cost if it were?

After realizing a $400,000,000 advance, cotton is weakening a bit, but still inclined to be a bit snooty over a mere $50,000,000 stabilization fund from the R. F. C.

The amateur politician, Gene Tunney, hastened back from Paris to appear on the same platform at Bridgeport tonight with Gov. Roosevelt. Just friendly minor bouts scheduled, as heavyweight battler Al Smith refused to train.

Gov. Roosevelt congratulated McAdoo on his nomination and expressed "confident good wishes for a clean Democratic sweep this fall." Rather a dirty dig at Republican brooming.

The new Nazi slogan is "Germany Is Awake." Apparently to the fact that Alarm-Clock Hitler rang up the curtain, but hasn't much of a show.

"Alfonso smashes news camera." After so many kingly pictures he negatives a counterfeit presentment.

There R now 100,000 men employed in the oyster industry, but shucks, that doesn't even count those who husk them for us.

Psychologically speaking, if one Editor Smith ever intended to do the Roosevelt ticket any good he is politician enough to know that it should have been done before now. After two months an ingrowing grouch can not be convincingly amputated.

The efforts of altruistic England to get back on the gold standard doubtless are due to remorse and a resolve no longer to retain an advantage over the rest of the world by using depreciated money. PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

RECALLING A FIRST INTERVIEW.

As cub reporter, I was sent
To interview a president
Of some concern I don't recall
And little that he said at all,
But I remember, as I ran,
He really was a famous man.
The editor who gave the task
Told me what questions I should ask.

I quite forgot that happy day
What great men are supposed to say,
For cub reporters hesitate
The famous to interrogate,
And so I fumbled with my hat
And did my best with him to chat.
At last I put one question, which
Was: "Did your father leave you rich?"

He looked at me and smiled and said:
"The contrary is true instead.
So far as money is concerned,
My father very little earned.
His life was one of toil, and yet
His memory I shan't forget,
For when he died I knew that he Had not one single fear for me.

"So well he'd schooled me day by day,
He knew that I could find my way.
The wisest, bravest, kindest sire
Knew just what wisdom I'd require,
And taught me that—and, passing on,
Knew I'd be safe when he was gone.
Such wealth as that is safer far
Than all your hoarded dollars are!"

A cub reporter then went out
With something long to think about!

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE: This may have an I-told-you-so sound, but it isn't meant that way.

You asked for a week of freedom—a week in which you might do precisely as you pleased, without suggestion or hindrance, in order to convince me that you could be trusted to manage your own affairs.

And then you fell down on the demonstration. I don't mean that you did anything in flagrant violation of the usual rules. You don't smoke, drink, swear or risk your reputation. But there happened to be a party every night; you missed regular meals; and when the week ended you were hollow-eyed for want of sleep and your tired nerves made you poor company until you had had a good cry.

That wasn't a serious failure, Honey, but it should serve as a lesson. Failure always teaches something. In this case the lesson is that nobody can be free of natural laws or enjoy the boon of liberty without self-control.

Freedom isn't what it seems. It is merely the right to impose on yourself the same restrictions a wise "boss" would impose.

Here in America you have a perfect object lesson.

An individual, a family or a country denied sensible control always makes a mess of things.

Years ago our race of self-reliant go-getters developed the rags-to-riches habit. The poor boy learned a trade, saved money, and set up a factory of his own. Or he clerked in a store, saved a few dollars, and branched out as an independent merchant. They were free men, doing as they pleased. And no harm was done, for there was room for all.

But eventually the saturation point was reached. The land was filled with factories and machines capable of manufacturing much more than the people could use. They made too many bites of a cherry.

At one time there were 5,000 firms making radios. All but a baker's dozen went broke. Conditions were almost as bad in other fields. Too many factories making everything, yet new ones building every day.

That was freedom. Every man's right to do as he pleased. But overexpansion and overproduction caused countless bankruptcies, wasted the country's resources and swept away the savings of small investors.

The free man's right to borrow money and build another bridge where no bridge was needed finally broke us all. That's the reason you can't have a new coat. That is the price we pay when freedom has no overseer.

Freedom from all control means anarchy and chaos. It wrecks nations or girls. Sensible control is the thing that matters, not the identity of the boss. There is only one right way to steer, no matter who holds the wheel. Love, DAD.

World Against Japan.

New York Times.

Answering questions in the Parliament at Tokyo, the Japanese Foreign Minister frankly said that "world opinion" is pronounced against the course pursued by Japan. Yet he asserted that the Japanese government is determined to adhere to the plans already adopted "and in the face of all opposition." This announcement will give Secretary Stimson cause "furiously to think."

Foreign Minister Uchida does not deny the great force of Secretary Stimson's argument. While he asserts that Japan will not yield to it, he concedes that she must take notice of it. This is implied in his statement that the Japanese government "is doing its utmost through our diplomats abroad to improve world feeling toward Japan."

Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

Baltimore Sun.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, though given wide discretion in making loans to self-liquidating construction projects, must proceed cautiously if its huge funds are not to be wasted. With many applications for aid already in hand, sound, careful judgment must be exercised to avoid allocation of loans to unsafe or useless enterprises. But it may be said with reasonable conservatism that, if the proposed Chesapeake Bay bridge does not meet the requirements that the corporation has announced will govern its attitude toward prospective borrowers, its operations are apt to be disappointing.

Cutting Down on Broadcasts.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The last presidential year was a time of good pickings for the radio people. Thanks to the generosity of Mr. Raskob and other rich Democrats the Smith campaign was liberally financed and the broadcasting companies sold much time to its managers at the rate of $17,000 an hour. The Republican treasury was in excellent shape and Mr. Hoover and his aids enjoyed all of the air facilities they could comfortably use.

This year the campaign chests of both the major parties are severely limited. If together the Republicans and Democrats can afford to spend as much as $500,000 for radio hook-ups they will be doing very well indeed. In 1928 their combined expenditures for this purpose were well over a million.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Maine Not Good Political Barometer. It Never Forecasts Democratic President, Says Tennessean.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In presidential election years there is always a considerable amount of interest manifested in the elections of Maine, which usually take place about the middle of September. The Republicans have been able, almost every time, to take advantage of the Maine elections, and to use them in making forecasts concerning the political trends of the Nation. Many years ago they coined this phrase: "As goes Maine in September, so goes the Nation in November." Now I am going to give you some election figures which ought to be sufficient to explode this Maine myth and to prove that it was manufactured for political purposes.

Beginning with 1880, Maine has elected only three Democratic governors, in 1880, in 1910, and in 1914. Yet after electing Plaisted governor in September, both Maine and the country went Republican in November. Maine was no barometer in 1880.

In 1884 Maine elected a Republican governor in September, but the country elected Cleveland President in November. Maine was no barometer in 1884.

In 1888 Maine elected a Republican governor in September, and the country went Republican in November. This time Maine proved to be a fair barometer.

In 1892 Maine elected a Republican governor in September, but the country again elected Cleveland President in November. Maine was a poor barometer in 1892.

In the years 1896, 1900, 1904 and 1908 Maine elected Republican governors in September, and the country went Republican in November. Probably those four campaigns helped to establish Maine's reputation as a barometer.

In 1910, Maine for the first time in 30 years elected a Democratic governor. In 1912 Maine defeated its Democratic governor, but both Maine and the country went for Wilson in the Democratic landslide of that November. Maine was an unreliable barometer in 1912.

In 1916 Maine elected a Republican governor in September, only to be followed by the reelection of President Wilson in November. Maine was a faulty barometer in 1916.

In 1920, 1924 and 1928 Maine followed its usual habit and elected Republican governors, which preceded each time the elections of Republican Presidents in the Novembers of those years.

Therefore, in the last thirteen presidential election years Maine has hit eight and missed five. It is a significant fact that Maine has never forecast the election of a Democratic President. The chances are always much greater that Maine will go Republican than there is that the country will go Republican. Maine will very probably elect a Republican governor on September 12. However, this will only have a slight bearing on the November election. There are many indications that the Republicans will not carry more than ten States this fall. Maine will most likely be found among those few and scattering Hoover States.

Democrat Says Turn-Down of Mr. Shouse Has Intensified the Smith-Roosevelt Feud.

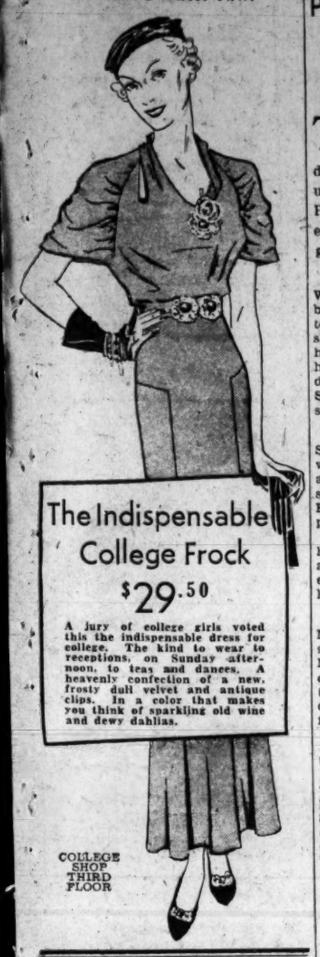

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A great many of the Democratic leaders are realizing just now the truth of that old saying that there are two sides to every question and at least two ways in which to settle every dispute. At the recent convention in Chicago Mr. Farley and his lieutenants who carried the Roosevelt banner seemed bent on but thing, and that was the nomination of their candidate. They never seemed to realize that a campaign lay just ahead. In fact, their actions indicated that the nomination was all that was desired, and with this accomplished the election (if that ever was given any thought) would naturally follow irrespective of the limits to which they might go in crushing the rights and feelings of any and all Democrats who chanced to differ with them.

In my opinion, one of the biggest blunders ever made in a political convention was enacted by Mr. Farley and his lieutenants when the cold shoulder was turned against Mr. Shouse. If we admit every contention that has been made by those who sponsored Roosevelt's nomination, which includes the allegation that Mr. Shouse was opposed to Roosevelt's nomination and in favor of Smith's, the fact remains that the majority in the convention showed very poor judgment when Shouse was denied permanent chairmanship of the convention. There were two ways in which to dispose of the issue presented and Mr. Farley chose the worse method.

Knowing that Mr. Shouse was a close friend to and admirer of Gov. Smith, there was no necessity for the movement to substitute Senator Walsh or any other person for Mr. Shouse as permanent chairman. Gov. Roosevelt could and would have received the nomination with Mr. Shouse in the chair, just as he did with Senator Walsh presiding. Had Gov. Smith not been rebuked and sat down on by the refusal to allow his friend and admirer to preside over the proceedings, the rift between Gov. Smith and the nominee of the party might not now exist.

Perhaps the big and noble thing to do is to forgive and forget the slights that come our way, but when they are rubbed in, as was the case in Chicago, I for one do not in the least blame Gov. Smith for the attitude he is taking. T. P. W., A DEMOCRAT.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A Dah-ray idea for a smart fall and winter coat dress that can be worn four different ways! (Dah-day designed.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Oh, it has more variety than a bug's ear-wacker! And it can do more tricks, and be more dresses!

Meaning the coat dress I designed for you and have sketched today. It's four dresses in one, really, each one as decidedly and distinctly different as if it were another dress entirely. And what do you think of that for a slick idea?

I told you earlier in the week about the popularity and elegance and general becomingness of coat dresses, remember? Well, the idea grew on me to the extent that I simply couldn't live without one—a new one for fall. So in designing myself one and having it made with the little tricks to the front and to the cuffs that made it variable, I decided to figure it all out for you in the proper three-color combinations and everything, and to tell you how to make the front adjustable, and how the cuffs buttoned on and off.

And there it all is, sketched for you today. Yours for the making or having made, my dear, and I hope you enjoy your Dah-ray coat dress as much as I do mine!

* * * *

If you don't see enough in the sketch to copy, better take the time to send a self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the design which I made up in the form of a leaflet. Especially for the color combinations I have worked out in this leaflet—because three colors are awfully tricky to select, you know! Then, too, you should see just how the front is adjustable, and how the cuffs are three different kinds of sleeves. So, the coat dress that is four is awaiting you in new leaflets that have just arrived from the printers—and better send for yours before you forget it and wish you had—hadn't.

* * * *

Taking the veil is quite the mode this fall—providing it be a mesh veil and either match or harmonize with the hat. Or much better still, providing they match the hair. And if you would be different, wear the dotted part of your veil over your hat and let the mesh part, undotted, fall over the face.

The Beauty Sorceress.

"What shall I do with this summer tan, grandmother?"

"Decide whether you wish to keep it or not, my child. The summer tan in winter months can be most attractive. So also is the alabaster skin. Either can be treated and made more or less lasting in a reliable beauty shop."

"Are home remedies reliable, grandmother?"

"Some of them, my child, but if you can possibly do so, have the tanning or bleaching of anything as important as your complexion done by experts." Selah!

A new cycle of fashion is bringing color again into prominence—as always happens after any world-wide cataclysms. After the war, color. After the "crise" color. To relieve the depressed morales of the world, no doubt! And very successful it is, too, my dear. Try it out yourself if you have never indulged in color in your wardrobe. And oh, do look at the heavenly new reds and wine and fuschia shades!

A few leaflets of Dah-day designs for embroidery or painting are left—send for yours if you haven't, because there will be leaflets later telling you how to make Christmas things that will require individual and unusual designs like these.

Au revoir!

THE WILL-O'-THE-WISP.

GRAND SLAMS, generally speaking, are unreal things, which lure their bidders to destruction, and yet I can not say that I greatly blame the holder of the South hand below for the bid of a Grand Slam on his magnificent holding. The reason that the bidding of Grand Slams is so universally condemned by good players is that, in order to make them, the Declarer must hold in his own and the Dummy hands not only control of all suits, but the assurance that some distributional storm will not upset his plans. The one criticism that could be made of South for attempting the Grand Slam on his holding was that he did not have any assurance, even with nine trumps headed by the two top honors, that he would not lose a trump trick. As the sequel shows, he was to pay for his temerity.

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ — ♡ J 10 6 4 ◇ J 10 9 7 6 ♣ Q J 4 2
♠ J 5 ♡ — ◇ A K Q 8 5 ♣ 4 3 2 ♣ 9 8 5	W E N S	♠ Q 7 ♡ 9 8 7 5 3 ♡ 2 ◇ — ♣ K 10 7 6 3
	♠ A K 10 9 8 6 4 3 2 ♡ A K Q ◇ — ♣ A

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2♠	3◇	Double	Pass
3♠	Pass	3NT	Pass
7♠	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

West's Double is entirely unsound, predicated, as it must be with his cards, on the hope of securing a diamond trick, a hope which his holding does not justify.

West's Opening lead was very cleverly chosen. South's Redouble to him clearly indicated that his hand was void of diamonds. Therefore, if he led the King of diamonds, it would be rumped by the Declarer and the trumps at once drawn. While the chance of defeating the Grand Slam was at best a slender one, West decided upon taking the only road to that end that appeared open, so instead of making the conventional Opening of the diamond King, he led the diamond Queen. North's Double of his bid of three diamonds and his subsequent bid of three notrump marked him with at least four diamonds to the Knave, and probably with all five outstanding diamonds. If this were true, of course, East and South were also void. If by any chance South did hold a diamond, the Queen was just as effective as a trick-taker as the Ace or King.

West's lead was based on sound tactics. If East was void of diamonds and did hold, as appeared possible from the bidding, a high honor in spades, and could be induced to trump the first lead, then West's unsound Penalty Double, instead of resulting disastrously, would result fortunately.

When the Dummy was placed on the table and the 6 of diamonds played, it was East's turn to do some thinking. Obviously, his partner had not bid on a suit headed only by the Queen, nor had he done so, would he have led that card. West certainly held at least one of the top honors in diamonds, and probably both. Why, then, had he led the Queen? It could not be with the purpose of deceiving the Declarer as to the distribution of the diamond suit, for to the Declarer that distribution must be an open book. Regardless of how unfavorable it might be, South had undertaken a Grand Slam contract against him. Thus reasoning, East decided that West's lead must be for the purpose of inducing him to ruff with a high trump if he held one. Reaching this conclusion East's play was simple. Upon his partner's lead of the Queen of diamonds, he played the Queen of spades. South over-ruffed with the King, but West's correct, if unconventional lead, and East's brilliant reasoning had brought about his defeat.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

DEAR Miss Pierce: What is the best procedure to follow during the summer months on an oily skin in order to prevent your face from breaking out with rashes and small pimples.

Second—Would you advised using cold cream on a not too oily skin prior to going to bed and then after a few moments taking it off with cold water, or would you disregard this procedure and follow another?

R. L., Toronto.

The oily type of skin may be cleansed with soap and water. Be sure to rinse very thoroughly several times, the last rinse cold water, as cold as you can stand it. A good skin tonic patted over the skin night and morning to stimulate circulation and help regulate the oil content will help. Be sure that your make-up is of the very finest quality. And pay strict attention to diet, including plenty of fruits and vegetables and avoiding excess oils, sweets and starches.

Second—The not too oily skin may indeed be cleansed with a good cleansing cream, preferably the liquefying kind. Follow with skin tonic patting or an ice rub. If the skin is inclined to be dry, smooth a little lubricating cream over face and neck.

* * * *

Dear Miss Pierce: Is there any particular size and age a girl must be to be a dress model, and how do you get a position of that kind? ANXIOUS.

My dear Anxious: As you doubtless know, there are various types of figures and as many different model sizes. There's the perfect 16, which varies greatly in every measurement from the perfect 36. There's the slim, boyish, slender figure for junior miss model, with waist about 26 and bust and hips about 33 or 34; the mature figure with waist from 26 to 28, hips 40, chest 36 to 38, and so on. The average model of today is 5 feet 6 inches. Junior miss model is necessarily shorter. The best thing to do is to register with a reputable employment agency in your vicinity, give them all your measurements, neck, shoulders, upper arm, forearm, wrist, bust, waist, hips, thighs, calves and ankles, weight, age, height, and as they have calls for models they can tell how near you come to requirements. Good luck to you!

* * * *

Dear Miss Pierce: Some time ago I sent for your superfluous hair buletin and used the bleach you recommend, with much success. Recently I used exactly the same bleach, in fact I had some of the mixture left over the last time, and it did not seem to work at all. Please tell me why.

MARGUERITE.

Dear Marguerite: In using the bleach you refer to, it is best to make the mixture fresh each time, as otherwise it may deteriorate and lose its strength. And when purchasing peroxide at the drug store be sure to ask for a new, fresh bottle.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BLUE BABIES.

MRS. C. I. D. wants an article on blue babies. As is generally the case, her interest is prompted by the fact that she lost a baby of this kind when it was ten days old and she can not learn why.

The mother had never had any heart trouble. That she should be interested is natural, since few of us are interested in those problems that have not come into our own lives. That she should be having trouble getting information of practical value should not surprise us, since we know very little about the condition, and our knowledge of what causes it is quite scant, and what we know is of no practical value.

The name is descriptive. Ordinarily a new-born baby is almost as red as a boiled lobster. Days are required for him to bleach to an acceptable pink. When a new-born babe, instead of being red is definitely dusky and the lips are blue, the parents and friends are able to make the diagnosis—blue baby—without much help from the medical man and nurse. The skin is dusky and the lips are blue because most of the blood that should pass through the lungs and be changed there to a cherry red color, by-passes and recirculates as blue venous blood. The by-pass is a hole between the two sides of the heart.

We know that the presence of this unnatural hole or door is what is called a congenital defect, but we do not know what causes it. Why don't the openings between the two sides of the heart close, according to schedule and plans and specification? We know that it does not result from heart disease, or any other disease in the mother, or in either parent. What is even more to the point we do not know when it is going to happen, or what can be done to prevent it. We do not know how to cure it, or what to do for it, except some few unimportant measures of relief. So far as the sick children and the parents are concerned, we might as well know nothing at all, since we have no information that can be put to any practical use.

The above statements may convey the idea that all blue babies pass away promptly. That is incorrect. As a matter of fact, while most babies with this heart defect do not survive long, some reach maturity. In fact, in some instances the defect is discovered accidentally, the heart being able to carry on pretty well in spite of the abnormal opening.

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF September 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger hours are from 11:35 a. m. to 1:40 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

The astrological indications of September 3 are more negative than positive. Nothing startling is scheduled to happen; no stirring event is foretold. It appears that ordinary routine will be maintained, and those who keep to the beaten path will, while not making much headway, avoid any retrogressive steps.

Children born on this September 3 will be productive of much felicity in the family circle. The boys may not occup high positions, the girls may not "marry well," but both boys and girls, by their unselfishness, thoughtfulness and their consideration for others, will engender feelings of affection and radiate sun rays.

Born on September 3, yours is rather a complex character, and not very easy to analyze, as so many of your traits are contradictory. On the debit side you are procrastinating, a disciple of "manana," rather than a "do-it-now" subject, disposed to skimp work and neglect detail, a lover of ease and creature comforts, and of a critical disposition. On the credit side you possess a faculty for accomplishing much in a short time once you have made up your mind to get down to it, capable of handling big issues and forcing them to a successful termination, uncomplaining when fate decides that you have to "rough it," and very commendatory of the efforts of those whom you like.

Necessity, not ambition, will be the motive power of your work. This condition is to be deplored, as you possess much latent talent—especially along artistic lines—and if it were assiduously and perseveringly cultivated, the results would be eminently gratifying.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

YES, IMA DODO SAW THE ECLIPSE.

"SURE, I saw the eclipse," said Miss Ima Dodo when interviewed especially for this department, and, even if it was on the level, I didn't care for it. I thought it was overrated."

* * * *

"What was wrong with it?" she was asked.

"It just wasn't anything like what I expected," she said. "I could've got the same effect by holding a soup plate in front of my face and looking at the sun. All that happened was that I didn't see the sun for a few minutes. What of it? There's been lots of days when I didn't see the sun for longer than that.

* * * *

"There was nothing to it except that the moon got in front of the sun, and I don't see why there was so much fuss made about it, especially as the moon couldn't help it. If the moon had suddenly gone cuckoo and jumped in front of the sun that would have been exciting, but there wasn't even a suprise to it. Everybody know what was going to happen. There was no snap to it."

* * * *

"Did you like the corona?" she was asked.

"There was a lot of fellers around smoking cigars, but they was no coronas," replied Miss Dodo.

"Did you enjoy the shadow bands?"

"No. The music was lousy," she replied. "They only had a few of those country bands anyhow where I was, but Barnum & Bailey's Lavalier was pretty."

"Barnum & Bailey's what?"

"Lavalier," she repeated.

"You mean Baily's Beads, don't you?" Miss Dodo was asked.

"Was they beads?" she asked with a peculiarly dumb expression.

* * * *

"Did you see the aurora borealis the night before?"

"Yeah, but we stopped at another hotel that was more lively and had a swell orchestra."

"Didn't you feel awed at all by the eclipse, Miss Dodo?" the reporter inquired. "Didn't you experience a strange sensation in the presence of such a great phenomenon?"

"No, I don't mind the dark at all and I told you it was just like I held a soup plate between my eyes and the sun. It was a great disappointment to me personally."

"You don't care for eclipses at all then, Miss Dodo?"

"Lissen," concluded Ima, "I'm off 'em. The frankfurters were good, but I wouldn't go to another eclipse if you paid me."

THE SPINSTER VOTE.

POLITE STOCKHOLDERS.

KREUGER-TOLL stockholders are suing the directors and demanding an explanation for their attitude in the affairs of the corporation. In other words, what they are asking is "Could I trouble you for a little light?"

VERY DEPRESSING.

One of the big cigar store chains is in receivership. This just goes to show how bad business is in the book, razor blade, golf ball and dollar watch lines.

Mrs. Rudy Vallee is reported planning a divorce from the Great Crooner. There is a third party involved by the name of "Mike."

61-Foot Cabin Cruiser Blows Up at Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The $23,000 61-foot cabin cruiser Stowaway blew up in the Jackson Park Harbor today, injuring its owner, C. A. Moore, and William Creasey, a member of the yacht's crew. Neither was seriously hurt.

The cruiser had just taken aboard 100 gallons of gasoline, and Moore thought a tank in the engine room exploded. Strangely enough no fire followed the blast and the boat, moored to its dock, sank quickly—shattered by the explosion. Coast Guards took off the injured men and three others who were aboard.

Wyoming Vote on Rum Lies in Hands of Court

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Unless the Wyoming Supreme Court rules otherwise, voters of the State will express their sentiments on prohibition repeal in the November election.

District Judge Sam M. Thompson today dismissed an injunction action designed to prevent the secretary of state from certifying a prohibition referendum to the county clerks for a place on the ballot. The suit was filed by John J. Spriggs, Lander attorney, in behalf of Wyoming prohibition leaders.

A CLOSEUP of the running of the Hopeful Stakes and the Saratoga Cup will be afforded NBC listeners today, when the pick of the country's 2 and 3 year olds swing into action for prizes totaling $55,000 at the historic Saratoga race course.

Clem McCarthy, racing authority, will be at the microphone for both events.

The Hopeful Stakes will be run at 3:15 p. m., while the Saratoga Cup race will begin at approximately 4 o'clock. Both broadcasts will be heard through WRC.

Complete daily reports of the men's national tennis championship tournament, with play-by-play descriptions of the finals, will reach listeners over the National Broadcasting Co. and Columbia networks.

A fifteen-minute summing up of today's activities will be broadcast by WRC at 5:30 o'clock. Ted Husing will be on WMAL'S wave length with his report at 6 o'clock.

The initial races for the Harmsworth Trophy, the great speed boat battle, will be described from the water and air over the WJZ network at 6:15 o'clock this morning.

THE pulsating, primitive rhythm of a tribal dance will be interpreted by Godfrey Ludlow, violinist, when he plays Cardin's Cree War Dance, on his program at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Ludlow, accompanied by Mme. Lolita Gainsborg, pianist, also will play "Habanera," by Crass; "Guitarrero," by Drdla, and Scott's "Lullaby."

Col. A. L. Conger, U. S. A. Intelligence Corps, retired, will be guest speaker during the broadcast of the K-7 dramatization over WRC at 7:30 o'clock tonight. "Chateau Thierry" will be the title of the spy story to be enacted. It concerns Americans and the important part their intelligence work played in preparation for the offensive in and around Chateau Thierry.

Secretary of Labor William N. Doak will be the speaker on the Public Affairs Institute program over WMAL at 9:15 o'clock tonight. His subject will be "The Significance of 1932 Labor Day."

IT IS generally conceded that women dislike mystifying technical devices which, to the contrary, please the average man. A good example is the automobile dashboard, replete with many instruments to indicate oil pressure, gasoline supply, and other operations.

The Zenith Radio Corporation has endeavored to simplify or eliminate as many of its operations which might be termed "technical" on their new radio receivers. One of the improvements is a new, simple, easily seen tuning device known as "shadowgraph." As one turns to the desired station a wide shadow appears on a translucent strip. As the peak of resonance is reached this wide shadow becomes narrower and narrower. When it reaches its narrowest point, the station is tuned exactly and scientifically at the proper peak. It is impossible to tune inaccurately. It is said that this "shadowgraph" tuning device is one of the greater advances in radio developments this year.

Ruth Etting will sing "Melancholy Baby," "I'll Never Be the Same" and "Moment in the Dark" during the Music That Satisfies program tonight WMAL, 9 o'clock). Nat Shilkret's orchestra will top it off with "Three Kisses" and the lively "Beale Street Blues."

"Carson Sink, Nevada: I drove some cattle into town for the old man and heard the radio at the store. You said you was Ed Thorgersen. If so, you owe me $4. Maybe you forgot the three card games in the bunkhouse, but you ought to remember the night you didn't win. You was broke, and maybe just forgot to pay before you moved on."

Writ to Prevent Moving Chicken Houses Asked

An injunction to restrain two men from moving several chicken houses off land near Muirkirk, Md., was sought in a petition filed yesterday in Prince Georges County Circuit Court by James E. Diggle, of Berwyn. Diggle alleges that the men, John and Edwin Mumper, of Beltsville, have already moved one of the houses. They have been arrested and held for grand jury action for the moving of this structure.

In his petition, filed through Attorney Walter L. Green, Diggles says that several years ago he sold the land to three other men. They defaulted in their payments and it was returned to him. Meanwhile, without his consent, he says, the Mumper brothers had built the houses on the land.

U. S. Golfers Finish Rout Of British

Win 4 Singles, Halve 3, Lose 1, in Walker Cup Match.

Dunlap Shoots a 66; Voigt Only American to Bow.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 2 (A. P.).—While the old guard faltered a trifle in the heat and a thunderstorm, America's new golfing blood today completed its sensational entry into international competition by contributing the chief thrusts in the United States' seventh straight victory over Great Britain for the Walker Cup.

Led by George T. Dunlap, jr., former intercollegiate champion from Princeton, who furnished the day's scoring fireworks with a record-smashing 66, 5 under par, the American "freshmen" dominated the concluding singles matches, accounting for all four of the United States victories in the eight 36-hole contests.

Although hopelessly whipped from the start, so far as the team battle was concerned, the British staged a highly courageous comeback by halving three other matches after Leonard Crawley, the English schoolmaster, posted their only victory in two days by beating the New York veteran, George Voigt, 1 up, on the thirty-sixth green.

Rules Prevent Play-Offs.

The final official tally, therefore, was 8 to 1 in favor of the United States, for the two days of international competition, with three matches halved. On points, however, for the twelve matches the tally was 9½ to 2½ in favor of the home forces.

Under Walker Cup rules there is no playoff of a match that is deadlocked on the last hole. The Americans captured all four of the Scotch foursomes yesterday.

The only British "shot" that came even close to endangering the Walker Cup, which has never left American possession since it was put up ten years ago by the St. Louis sportsman whose name it bears, was fired by Crawley. On the last hole of the morning round, in his battle with Voigt, Crawley's wild approach hit the huge silver trophy sharply on one handle, leaving a slight dent as the ball bounded off to the road and cost the Briton the hole.

Capt. "Tony" Torrance, the veteran British leader, pulled up on the last nine to square his match with Francis Ouimet, the American captain, on the thirty-fourth hole, then save a half with a great recovery on the home hole to finish all even.

John Stout was 4 down and 9 to go, but captured three of the last four holes to finish all square with another American veteran, Jess Sweetser.

Charley Seaver, of Los Angeles, the Stanford sophomore, and Gus Moreland, of Dallas, the youthful new Western champion, who paired to win in the foursomes, came back to perform just as ably in the singles.

The fourth American victor in his Walker Cup singles debut, Maurice J. McCarthy, jr., of New York, brought down Lister Hartley with a superb finish. The black-haired, sturdy former Georgetown athlete, after having his lead wiped out at his twenty-seventh hole, came back to win three of the last four holes as he won by the margin of 3 and 2. McCarthy made it a flourishing finish by canning a 30-foot putt on the thirty-fourth green to end the match.

Francis Ouimet, U. S., all even with Tony Torrance, England.
Jess Sweetser, U. S., all even with John Stout, England.
Charles Seaver, U. S., defeated Eric Fiddian, England, 7 and 6.
Gus Moreland, U. S., defeated Rex Hartley, England, 2 and 1.

Dudley Victor In Pro Golf Feature

Beats Collins on 38th Hole by Rallying in National Event.

Dutra, Creavy and Walsh Also Reach Semifinals.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 2 (A.P.). Big Ed Dudley went into the semifinals of the national professional golf championship today with a stirring effort that easily featured the day's play.

Kicked two down with only two to go by the amazing Al Collins, of Kansas City, the big boy from Wilmington, Del., rode over the final two fairways of the regulation 36-hole stretch with a par and an eagle, to pull even, and then polished off his performance by winning on the second over-time hole.

Dudley easily stole the show today as the other three survivors charged into the semifinal bracket with comparative ease.

Dutra Lowers Par In Easy Victory.

Olin Dutra, the big Castillian from Santa Monica, Calif., tamed par for the fourth successive day to rout Herman Barron, of Portchester, N. Y., five and four; Frank Walsh, of Chicago, spinning along comeback road after last winter's serious injury, provided a minor upset by routing wee Bobby Cruickshank, of New York, eight and seven, in a match of erratic golf, and Tom Creavy, the defending champion, sailed right in with a three and two triumph over Ralph Stonehouse, last surviving member of the dark horse contingent, along with Collins, three and two.

Dudley tested Collins' mettle by snatching the very first hole of the afternoon round and holding him even through 27, although they swapped two holes each on the front stretch.

Dutra, who has been 12 under par for the 129 holes he has played in the championship drive, won in a romp. He carded a medal of 70, two under perfect figures, on his morning round to take a four-hole lead.

Stonehouse topped Creavy for just three holes today and was down all the rest of the way with the champion playing safely and steadily.

Walsh caught Cruickshank sadly off his game. Bobby jumped into a 2-up lead with a deuce on four and a par of five, but the Chicagoan captured the next four holes in subpar golf and stayed ahead from there on. Both played erratically.

Dutra tackles Dudley in tomorrow's feature semifinal skirmish over 36 holes, more or less, while Creavy attempts to stop the march of Walsh, who has won all his matches by margins of 7 and 6, 9 and 8, and 8 and 7.

Joe Knight Arrives For Laurel Match

Joe Knight, light-heavyweight champion of Dixie, the hurly burly battler who holds decisions over both Maxie Rosenbloom and Bob Godwin, breezed into Washington yesterday afternoon in fine physical trim, declaring he expects "some furious mixing" in the main ten-rounder with Bob Tow, of Birmingham, Ala., at Twin City arena in Laurel next Wednesday night.

Knight opened his training grind at the Mohawk Club shortly after his arrival. He shadow-boxed and punched away vigorously at the bag. The Southerner will work out this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the public is invited. His opponent, Tow, is leaving no stone unturned in an effort to whip himself into tip-top shape.

Portner's Reopens With Card Sept. 12

Alexandria's palace of punch, Portner's Arena, swings open its doors Monday night, September 12, with a choice piece of light-heavyweight milling between Sam Weiss, Allentown, Pa., and Joe Banovic, Binghamton, N. Y., in the windup over an eight round distance.

Frank Mann will make the matches for the Day Nursery.

Roddy Davis, the best lightweight prospect the District has ever produced, clashes with Larry Reina, Phillipsburg, N. J., in the six-round semi-windup.

STARS BEGIN QUEST FOR NET TITLE

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The national singles tennis championships, calculated to be the most colorful since 1927, when Rene Lacoste defeated Bill Tilden in a dramatic final, open tomorrow at Forest Hills with 28 matches scheduled in the priliminary round.

Not in the last four years has the annual classic attracted such a field of international stars as will battle it out through next week for the crown now worn by Ellsworth Vines, jr. Nine of the world's first ten ranking players are in the draw, the lone absentee being Jean Borotra of France.

Henri Cochet, who was brought over at considerable expense to renew his rivalry with Vines, turned an ankle in practice the other day at Seabright, but the famous Frenchman will play his first match Monday.

Favored Entrants Given Byes.

Although Vines, Cochet and other high-powered players were given byes in the initial round, several matches on tomorrow's program promise action aplenty, notably those between Berkeley Bell and Elbert Lewis, Sidney Wood, jr., and Arnold Jones, Bryan Grant, jr., and Wray D. Brown and Frankie Parker and Sadaka U. Onda.

Eddie Yeomans, District of Columbia champion of 1931, will meet Edward W. Barnes, of Brooklyn, N. Y., in the first round of play today.

FILIPINOS PLAY TODAY.

Briton Also to Drive New Boat in Harmsworth Cup Test.

DETROIT, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Barring a postponement on account of rough water, mechanical difficulties or accident, two floating power plants will roar over a 35-mile nautical course in Lake St. Clair shortly after sunrise tomorrow morning to establish a new world's competitive hydroplane record.

It will be the first heat of the Harmsworth Trophy race, a contest for the world's supremacy in competitive speedboating.

Just a year ago Kaye Don, British challenger, defeated Gar Wood, American defender, in the opening heat of the race, only to lose the best chance a foreign challenger has had since 1920, by beating the starting gun and then foundering his craft in the second heat.

Tomorrow Don will try it again. His challenger this year is a bigger and much more powerful, white-hulled Miss England III. It holds the world's 1-mile straightaway record of 119.81 miles an hour and officially is the world's fastest hydroplane.

Wood Keeps Speed Of Craft Secret.

Wood, too, has a new defender. It is No. 10 in his line of Miss Americas. Just how fast the new defender can go is a secret Wood and the few men who have worked with him in building the craft have kept pretty much to themselves.

Some unofficial timers claim to have clocked the mohogany-hulled Miss America X at more than 120 miles an hour, but there has been no official timing of the huge boat Wood calls a "machinery warehouse."

Don last year set the Harmsworth speed record at 89.913 statue miles an hour, this being the average for the heat. On the short straightaways he attained a speed of something over 110 miles an hour.

Browns Beat Chisox, 3-1, Lyons Losing Duel

St. Louis, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—George Blaeholder had the best of it in a pitchers' duel with Ted Lyons today, and while each of them allowed eight safeties, the St. Louis Browns made swats count to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 1, in the series opener.

MACKS WIN 2, AIDED BY 7 HOMERS

Foxx Clouts 49th in 7-3, 15-0 Defeats of White Sox.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The Athletics had little trouble winning both ends of a double-header from Boston today, the first game 7 to 3 and the second 15 to 0.

Nine home runs were hit in the two games, two of them by the Red Sox. McNair led the circuit smackers by hitting one in the first game and two in the second. Al Simmons also hit two in the second game, both times with two men on base, to bring his total to 30 for the season.

Jimmy Foxx hit his forty-ninth homer in the first inning of the nightcap. Others hit for the distance were McManus, Alexander and Williams.

30 Seek 3-Mile Swim Title, Held by Ruddy, Here Today

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE big silver bowl, which President Coolidge placed in competition in 1924 for the National A. A. U. 3-mile swim, will go up on the competitive block again this afternoon at 3 o'clock when more than 30 outstanding male natators churn a triangular course in the Potomac River.

The New York A. C. paced once more by the irrepressible Ray Ruddy, five times winner of the event, will play the role of defending champion. Five times the President's Cup has fallen to the Gotham quintet of swimmers and today it once more looms as a favorite. Assisting Ruddy will be Don Ruddy, another member of this rugged family of swimmers.

The President's Cup is exclusively for team competition. Besides the defending champions the following clubs will enter teams, the Baltimore Y. M. C. A., the Bay Shore Swimming Club and the Washington Canoe Club, sponsors of the event. Individuals from the following clubs have entered in quest of the numerous individual trophies and prizes at stake: Knights of Columbus, of Baltimore; Pennsylvania A. C., Brooklyn A. C., Quantico Marines, Chevy Chase and Ambassador pools. The first local man to finish will be appropriately crowned District A. A. U. champion, at 3 miles.

The course is triangular this year, starting at the Washington Canoe Club, up the river to Three Sisters, back to the Virginia side, opposite the canoe club wharf, and then across to the canoe club. Local honors are expected to be upheld by Lawrence Buscher, sturdy all-around Western High athlete. Another local boy competing is William Greiner, who finished in the national marathon two weeks ago.

The grind starts at 3 o'clock. The record time, held by Ruddy, is 1 hour 15 minutes 10 4-5 seconds.

Koenig, Cuyler Shine in 8-to-3 Triumph Over Giants.

League Leaders Tie Best Win Streak Since 1928.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—With the home-run boys, Kiki Cuyler and Mark Koenig, setting the pace, the Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 8 to 5, today for their thirteenth consecutive triumph and retained their seven and one-half game lead over Pittsburgh.

Burleigh Grimes started against his former mates, but was retired for a pinch batsman in the third inning, after yielding three runs. Charlie Root pitched six innings of splendid relief ball to gain credit for his twelfth victory of the season.

Tex Carleton was the Cardinal starting hurler, but was replaced in the fifth by Sylvester Johnson, who in turn gave way to Jim Lindsey.

The triumph equaled the Cubs' longest previous winning streak, set by the 1928 club.

Nats See Opportunity To Gain on Athletics

Winning two from Boston yesterday, the Mackmen gained a half game on the Nats and now hold a five-game margin, but are scheduled to make an appearance in Washington on Sunday for a hand-to-hand battle. Connie Mack doubtless will start Lefty Grove in an effort to shake the Nats off his trail. Bill McAfee, unbeaten in a Washington uniform, may start for the Nats.

On Labor Day, however, the Nats see further opportunity to make up ground, with the Athletics facing the Yankees in a double-header while Washington is host to the Red Sox.

132d Straight Game Completed Without Being Blanked.

Special to The Washington Post.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 2.—For the second day in succession Washington needed only two put outs to leave the Yankees scoreless for the first time this season. But again in the ninth a timely hitter appeared to drive in a run and equal the record set by Boston and Philadelphia back in 1894 when these teams played 132 games without being shut out.

It was Fred Marberry today who came close to blanking the Yankees. It was Lou Gehrig, who distracted him with a lusty triple scoring Babe Ruth, who had walked.

Marberry pitched even better than Crowder did yesterday, yielding only five hits, while his teammates banged away at George Pipgras and helped him to a neat 7-to-1 victory. Having won two in a row from the Yankees, the Nats have the better of them in games won and lost, 11 to 10. They are the only team in the league that has won more than it has lost in its contests with the Yankees. No matter what happens tomorrow, the Nats are sure of breaking even.

None Passes Second Until Ninth.

Combs, Dickey, Pipgras, Jorgens and Gehrig were the only successful Yankee hitters. Until the ninth not a man of the Yankee crew had passed second base. The Nats, on the other hand, scored three runs in the second, three in the fifth and one in the eighth. Sam Rice made two singles, a double and a triple, and drove in three runs. Manush got two hits and Marberry, in addition to pitching effectively, got three singles.

The Nats began to annoy Pipgras in the second inning. With one out, West singled. Bluege was struck by a pitched ball. Spencer popped to the catcher, but Marberry kept things going by rapping an awkward grounder to Lary, who made a bad toss to Lazzeri, getting no one and permitting the Nats to fill the bases. Into these happy surroundings stepped Sam Rice and drove a triple as far as the monument to Miller Huggins at the foot of the center field flag pole, clearing said bases and being thrown out himself trying to stretch his hit into a home run.

Pipgras Assaulted Again in Fifth.

Pipgras pulled himself together and went through the third and fourth without untoward incident; but the fifth must have been tiresome to him. The first four men to bat—Marberry, Rice, Myer and Manush—hit safely. Three runs were in before any one was out. Rice's hit was a double. So was Myer's, a liner over Gehrig's head which drove in two runs. Myer scored on Manush's single.

A pass to Lazzeri and a single by Dickey provided the Yankees with two base runners with only one out in the Yankee part of the fifth. But Chapman flied to Rice and West went back and hauled in Lary's liner. Three men failed to advance Pipgras after he opened the sixth with a double.

Reynolds made a spectacular running catch in the seventh, chasing Gehrig's powerful liner toward center field and reaching out for the ball with his gloved hand turned around backward. Again Lazzeri walked, and Jorgens duplicated Dickey's single. But Marberry picked up Chapman's grounder and started the Nats' third double play.

Sammy West Scores After Stealing.

West forced Kuhel in the eighth, stole second, proceeded rapidly to third when Jorgens pegged the ball into center field, and came home while Lazzeri wrestled with Bluege's slow grounder.

Indian Spring Junior Title to Harold Graves

Harold N. Graves yesterday won the Indian Spring junior golf championship, shooting the 36 holes in 166 strokes. Finishing the first 18 in 80, Harold plodded his way through a driving rain in the afternoon to take an 86.

Second honors went to James Brownell, who posted an 87—90—177. His 12-year-old brother, Bob, shot an 89—93—182. Bill Thompson scored a 107—100—207.

REDIVIVUS, 13 TO 1, WINS MARLBORO FEATURE IN STRETCH

Sherry Rides Longshot in Victory

Dark Ayr Is Second After Taking Lead; Baboo Wins.

Remillard Has Mount on Three Winners; Gunther Scores.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

REDIVIVUS, which has the distinction of never having been installed a favorite despite a number of winning performances, accounted for The Willard Purse in Marlboro's outstanding race yesterday. True to his reputation as a habitual longshot, Redivivus paid off his select group of backers at the rate of $27.90 for the usual investment. Beaten a half-length was Dark Ayr, with Five Oaks a driving third.

Although defeated on Five Oaks in the feature, Remillard took the day's riding honors with three winners.

The crowd was almost as large as the daily 5,000 on hand for the first three days of the meeting and winners and losers alike seemed to take on new life after a heavy shower during the fourth race which put a crimp in the lemonade business.

Redivivus had a lot of ups and downs before Little Jockey Sherry brought him home in front. At least three other horses had the doubtful honor of setting the pace. Wrack Royal, a favorite, broke on top, followed by Dorrit and Redivivus, but High Socks was batted into the lead as they passed the judges' stand the first time. Gay Widower and Wrack Royal were laying just off the leader's saddle post. Sherry had Redivivus in fifth place and did not ask for speed until the last trip around. The Prince Pal gelding then went to the front, but Dark Ayr also came up and took the lead at the far turn. The latter, however, went a trifle wide entering the stretch and Sherry made the most of his opportunity, cutting through on the rail to regain and hold the lead.

Baboo, made the favorite, responded with a winning effort in the fourth race—The Captain John Smith. Pat Remillard had the mount and the race was run in a heavy shower.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

They scratched Seth's Ballot again yesterday and he will probably win today, as do most of our scratched horses when they run, but we can't follow them all up. The code today is a Dade Park long shot, 20-2-22-8-6-12-12. Joe's Hygro ran second yesterday. His bank roll is $169.25. Asbestos' is $31.68.

Asbestos bets $1 Win, $2 Third, Arundel. Joe bets $5 Win, $5 Third, Grimace, both at Devonshire.

REDIVIVUS, well up throughout, slipped through on the railing turning for home and, closing fast, was going away. DARK AYR forced the early pace and appeared the winner when he bore out in the stretch. FIVE OAKS, in tight quarters the first half, made a bold bid at the far turn, but was not good enough. HIGH SOCKS, used up making the early pace, retired the last half. WRACK ROYAL went right along with the early pace and, with a keener ride, would have been closer.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $400; claiming. The Southern. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:51. Off at 4:52. Winner, A. W. AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: MARLBORO RACE TRACK.

Last chance at the bangtails at this track today. It looks like Pat Remillard's mounts are the best bets. This young man, who chooses to ride winners on the half-milers rather than get occasional mounts on the big time tracks, is having the time of his life. He booted home two winners—Baboo and Gunther—for me with brilliant exhibitions. Appears to be an improved rider, although his rivals here have little class. May show the boys something at Havre de Grace, Pimlico and Bowie. At any rate, those who are following him here will swear by him. Watch him on Monel today. BILL.

FIRST RACE—WASHOUT, out of the pay only once in nine starts, appears to be the best of the juveniles in the opener. Missed by a length at Cumberland and runs her favorite distance. RUSTIC CUBA looks like the one to beat. Won last out up the line. BUSY IKE for the show. NEMERC could win, but is last on the eligibility list and will hardly get in.

SECOND RACE—BOKIE B. and BILLNORA, if the latter is sent back, should battle it out here with the first named having the edge. BOKIE B. has demonstrated he is at his best. WILD WEST is better than that last.

THIRD RACE—CRASHER may be the best of this poor lot. Finished a length behind Primlin at Cumberland and that race repeated here would easily take the main money. FRANCES COOPER has been threatening of late and should be second. GREY BELLE may be the sleeper here. Ran well for four furlongs the last time.

FOURTH RACE—TERRANOVA, a half-mile track star, should have little trouble with this group. In top form, this one needs only to run his race. LEZEV, a 2-year-old, finished fast in her only outing here and gave evidence of wanting a distance race. May surprise by taking the place. SAMBO G. quit yesterday, but may stay for the third end.

FIFTH RACE—MONEL will have Remillard in the saddle today and may take the measure of HAGERSTOWN and BRIGHT BIRD. The first named had some class. Won from Springsteel last year and has run well on the mile courses this season. Both HAGERSTOWN and BRIGHT BIRD have tired in races here.

SIXTH RACE—WANDERING GOLD to make it two straight. Did all asked the last time. ROD RACK and FIVE OAKS are the best of the others.

SEVENTH RACE—BLUE FISH won here and then came back with a good effort. Has BYE AND BYE to beat. STAR GOLD to show.

9 JUVENILES NAMED FOR HOPEFUL

Ladysman, Happy Gal Choices in $40,000 Race Today.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Seeking the $40,000 check waiting at the end of the 6½ furlongs known as the Hopeful, eight colts and one filly, the class of the 2-year-old turf division, today were named for the twenty-eighth running of the juvenile stake at Saratoga tomorrow.

Nine have been chosen, but to horseman and layman alike the race appears to be strictly a private duel between W. R. Coe's Ladysman, the ranking colt of the division, and William Woodward's Happy Gal, the champion filly. The remaining seven are given only an outside chance.

Ladysman, the leading juvenile money winner with earnings totaling close to $60,000, and Happy Gal have matched strides three times over the Spa racing strip. Twice the Coe speedster has won and as a result probably will face Starter George Cassidy the odds-on choice.

Steels Head Rush of Stocks To Summer's Peak Prices

New Advance of 2.9 Points Made in Turnover of 3,497,450 Shares.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—More cheerful reports from the steel industry and a buoyant cotton market sent stocks on another upward excursion today.

It was natural that steel shares should lead the rally and their gains were rather pronounced. U. S. Steel common sold at 50 for the first time since spring; closing at the top, its net gain was 3⅛. Gulf States, Youngstown, Bethlehem, National and Republic gained from nearly 2 to 4 points.

Rails were again prominent, with Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Lehigh Valley, Pennsylvania, Delaware & Hudson and Lackawanna up 1 to 2; but the market's advance was inclusive and there were but few stragglers. Chemicals, led by advances of nearly 4 each in Du Pont and Allied, did well, while utilities were generally stronger, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas and North American rising 2 to 3. Case, International Harvester, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward followed the renewed spurt by commodities. Sales aggregated 3,497,450 shares.

The advance, averaging 2.9 points, carried the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite to 70.2, the highest mark of the summer boom and only about a point under the year's top, made on March 5. This thrust through August's peak was favorably construed by brokers who have been particularly impressed by the rails' performance.

Dun's said the "return of buying confidence and the continued efforts of retailers to bolster depleted inventories on a rising market, combined with other economic factors, have resulted in the virtual maintenance of recent gains and the extension of improvement to nearly all lines of distribution." As a result there has been some pick-up in industrial operations, and there are hopes that the strengthening demand will grow more robust during the autumn.

Optimism, according to Bradstreet's, "has in no way abated," auguring that the recent despair "has permanently gone." Heavy industries are still dormant so far as actual accomplishment toward recovery is concerned, but they can be expected to do little until confidence has been firmly entrenched.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Better Wall street and Paris news induced fresh support in international and industrial shares. Celanese issues were especially strong, due to advance in prices, and copper and tin shares also improved with the higher metal quotations. Gilt-edge securities suffered on profit-taking. The closing was cheerful.

Paris—Prices on the bourse were firmer with monthly liquidation out of the way. Appreciable gains were registered everywhere, foreign as well as French issues returning to the higher prices quoted several days ago.

Berlin—The boerse improved during the session on calmer judgment of German equality claims in Paris and a better political outlook at home. The closing was sustained.

BONDS RESUME RISE, LED BY RAIL ISSUES

Market Gains Half Point in Lively Session; Sales, $12,254,000.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The railroads led an upturn in the bond market today and various classes of listed securities reflected the improvement in the carrier group.

It was the liveliest session of the week, sales totaling $12,254,000, par value. The average for 60 corporate loans also made the best showing in the past ten days, advancing half a point.

While outstanding news which might have affected the transportation section was absent, dealers reported a better feeling based principally on hopes of increased earnings, a proposed wage adjustment and further aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Trading interest was centered on speculative bonds, high-grade issues holding to a steady but not buoyant position. This was true of the utilities and industrials, as well as the rails.

The most active of the carriers, with gains of 1 to 3 or more points, included loans of Allegheny, Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, International Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Pennsylvania, Pere Marquette, Frisco, Southern Pacific and Southern.

The only activity in United States Government obligations was in Liberty First 4¼s and 3½s. The former reached a new high for the year on reports the Treasury would not elect to call this loan for conversion on September 15.

Italian Kingdom 7s led a number of recoveries in the foreign department, advancing 1½ points in unusually heavy trading. Prussian Free State 6s and 6½s also gained from 2⅜ to 2¾ points. Both the Germans and French were firm.

Bank Suspensions Decline To 83 for Month of August

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Bank suspensions in August showed a marked decrease compared with July, according to figures compiled today by the American Banker.

There were 83 failures last month, against 134 in July and 149 in June. Suspensions ebbed to the lowest rate of the year in the early part of this week, but due to the collapse of a chain of ten banks in Idaho and Oregon, the total fo rthe full week was raised slightly above the preceding week, amounting to seventeen, against fifteen last week. There were seven reopenings.

CURB MOVES HIGHER IN BUOYANT TRADING

One to Three Points Added in Increased Sale of 460,000 Shares.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Following some profit-taking in which the curb market became a little heavy, the advance was resumed today on a broad scale. Gains ranged from fractions to three or more points for a majority of shares.

Turnover was about 60,000 shares greater than yesterday, approximately 460,000 shares changing hands.

Electric Bond & Share common was an outstanding point of activity, the price advancing 4 points to 44 3-4, a recovery of about half its reaction which occurred in the earlier part of the week.

The oils were steady. Traders were apparently waiting further light on conditions in the industry which, while reporting headway in curtailment, has nevertheless shown some easing of gasoline prices. Standard of Indiana, Kentucky and Gulf were fractionally higher.

Investment trusts were in demand, gaining fractionally.

Wheat Crop in France Exceeds Yield of 1931

Paris, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—The Official Journal estimate of the 1932 French wheat crop is about 90,000,000 quintals, equivalent to approximately 9,900,000 tons. This is more than the 1931 crop, but less than the 1929 crop.

Steel Yield Upturn Seen in Two Weeks

Youngstown May Double Output Shortly After Labor Day.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—While steel operations are now at a low level, sentiment in the steel trade today was distinctly cheerful, some authorities expressing belief that a material increase would occur in the early fall.

Based on tentative production schedules of leading manufacturers in the Youngstown district, Dow Jones today estimated that output would be doubled next week following the usual Labor Day shutdown.

Iron Age expressed hope of an upturn in its latest report, although it placed this week's operations at only 13 per cent of capacity, near the extreme low point of the depression. Scrap iron prices today were firmer, indicating that some buying had come into the market in expectation of better demand.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN ON HEAVIER DEMAND

Corn and Oats Rise Also, With Provisions Steady to 5 Cents Down.

Chicago, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A wave of heavy buying at the finish swept grain prices generally higher today, after the market had jiggled nervously within a narrow range most of the session. Commission house buying gave wheat an early bulge, which was quickly wiped out by profit taking and by liquidation of the September delivery. Improvement in stocks and cotton encouraged buying and caused considerable nervousness among shorts. Corn followed wheat. Oats were quiet and provisions eased with hogs.

Wheat closed at or near the top for the day and ⅞ to 1⅜ cents higher than yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ to ⅜ up; oats, mixed, ¼ lower to ¼ advanced, and provisions steady to 5 cents down.

Foreign news was mixed, heavy offerings of native wheat in France and Germany being a bearish influence, but offset to a large degree by advices of light export shipments from the Southern Hemisphere. Argentine exports were only 575,000 bushels, and of the 929,000 bushels shipped from Australia, only 60,000 bushels went to Europe.

Corn prices had several quick turns, the market closing with the trend upward. Weather conditions over the belt were favorable. Argentine shipments for the week totaled 3,327,000 bushels.

Oats were under hedging pressure at times, but held rather steady.

SECURITY MARKETS SET NEW HIGH LEVEL

Prices Gain Along Wide Front; List Advances 100 Per Cent.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Financial markets leaped forward with renewed vigor today, after loafing most of the week.

Stocks swept forward along a broad front, with the steel shares particularly buoyant. The market as measured by price averages, reached new high levels for the current recovery, and many issues, particularly among the steels, registered new peak prices for 1932.

A resumption of the advance in the recently lagging bond market, where the best gains in 10 days were recorded, and fresh strength in principal commodities, accelerated the movement in shares.

Trading in shares reached a feverish pace in the last hour, after progressing more modestly earlier. Net gains in many issues ranged from $2 to $6 a share.

The Standard Statistics Co. price index of 90 representative issues indicated that the general average level had been boosted to within little more than $1 a share under the 1932 peak reached in March. This barometer of the market, furthermore, indicated for the first time a price appreciation since the low of July 8, of a shade over 100 per cent.

Cotton and wheat both turned sharply upward. Gains of more than $2 a bale in cotton brought that staple back to the best level since Monday, or within striking distance of its recent highs. Wheat rallied about a cent a bushel, recovering to the best prices since Tuesday. Trends among the secondary commodity markets were mixed, but such lines as rubber, hides, cocoa and silk advanced. Copper was quoted at 6 cents a pound for the first time since March, up ⅛ cent since yesterday, and about 1 cent since June.

Stock Rise Made Without Loan Gain

Dealings in Securities Indicate Buying on Cash Basis.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—A rise in stock prices of almost 100 per cent, accompanied by no increase in brokers' loans of consequence, is one of the phenomena of the extraordinary past two months in the New York Stock Exchange. The fact that stocks could achieve such a recovery without an important increase in marginal trading has been widely advanced as one of the market's most bullish aspects.

While the total quoted value of shares listed in the exchange, as measured by price indices, has appreciated some $12,000,000,000 from their lows of early July, the latest weekly brokers' loan statement shows a total only $14,000,000 above the July low.

The most obvious explanation of the sweeping advance, unaccompanied by an important increase in loans, would be that there had been heavy buying of stocks for which full payment was made in cash.

COTTON SENT HIGHER ON TRADE'S BUYING

Market Up 43 to 47 Points After Profit Taking; Liverpool Covers.

New York, Sept. 2 (A.P.).—Cotton resumed its advance today after three days of reaction.

An early advance was checked by realizing or liquidation and some scattered selling but after selling off from 8.82 to 8.71 for December, prices firmed up again on trade buying and covering promoted by unfavorable crop reports and strength in the stock market. December advanced to 8.93 or $2.70 a bale above Thursday's closing quotations and closed at 8.83, with the general market closing steady, an advance of 43 to 47 points.

The highest prices of the day in the late trading when October sold at 8.75 and March at 9.15 or 51 to 55 points net higher. Closing quotations were 8 to 12 points off from the best under realizing.

A private crop report placed the condition at 55.1 and the indicated yield at 10,775,000 bales, while another made the conditions 56.6 and the indicated yield 11,098,000 bales.

Liverpool cables reported covering with local and continental buying in that market, but said Manchester was finding business in cotton goods more difficult and that more mills were closing. Exports today—10,115—making 506,957 so far this season.

CAPITAL STORES TOP FIFTH AREA IN SALES

Retail Average in Lead, Despite Year's Drop; Baltimore Is Second.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Again has retail trade of Washington department stores led the Fifth Federal Reserve District. The latest monthly review of credit, business and agricultural conditions in the district compiled by Chairman and Federal Reserve Agent William W. Hoxton, Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, revealed this yesterday.

While Washington department store retail sales in July were 27.1 per cent behind those of the month last year, those of Baltimore were 27.8 per cent below; Richmond's were 29 per cent below; those of other cities of the district, 29.3 per cent below and those of the district as an entirety, 27.8 per cent below.

In the comparison for the January-July period, Washington sales were 16.2 per cent off in comparison with the corresponding period in 1931. Baltimore sales have decreased 20.7 per cent from the 1931 period; Richmond, 21.2 per cent; other cities of the district, 25.8 per cent and the district as a whole, 19.5 per cent.

In its report to clients issued today, United Business Service states that the present is a period of transition between declining and rising volumes. According to the United Business Thermometer computed by the service, trade and industry have fluctuated between 45 per cent and 49 per cent below normal since May.

Bertram Chesterman, president of the Morris Plan Bank of Washington and chairman of the general committee which is in charge of the Morris Plan Bankers Association convention, to be held at the Shoreham Hotel, September 29-30 and October 1, advises that he and Wallace D. McLean, chairman of the program committee, have been making final arrangements for the convention. Speakers of national prominence will address the night sessions. A banquet will close the convention on the night of October 1. Many interesting features have been planned for the women delegates and guests attending the convention.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

SATURDAY night meant nothing in the royal household of France in the early eighteenth century. To take a bath was dangerous, useless and sacrilegious. Duke de St. Simon, in his memoirs, relates that Louis XIV took his first bath when he was 65 years old—and then under doctor's orders.

The king was ill, there was fear for his life; a famous German physician was called in consultation. The medical man prescribed a bath for the ailing monarch.

Ridiculous as it seems now, ladies of the court knelt in prayer for his majesty's safety at the royal private chapel, even as the king sat in the tub. A crowd of gentle folk gathered in the antechamber to learn, at the earliest possible moment how the king survived the ordeal. Louis saved the German doctor's professional reputation by living for several years after the bath.

The wave of freak baseball deliveries which started when a gum-chewing pitcher invented the spitball, reached its zenith in the big leagues when enterprising pitchers laid down a smoke screen between themselves and the batter. Dave Danforth is given credit for inventing this bit of baseball strategy.

The pitcher carried a pocket full of talcum. Before throwing the ball he would scatter some of the powder in the air in front of him. The bewildered batter could not see the pitcher's movements and, against a background of powder, had difficulty in seeing the ball. Just how the pitcher was able to see the batter is not recorded.

GAS LIGHT MAJORITY OWNERS FILE APPEAL

Beat Deadline by Day in Suit Opposing Order to Dispose of Stock.

Just a day before the 120 days allowed for appeal from orders of the Public Utilities Commission had elapsed, the out-of-town owners of the Washington Gas Light Co. yesterday filed a bill in equity in District Supreme Court seeking to restrain the commission from enforcing the order to divest themselves of all above 20 per cent of the local utility's stock in compliance with the La Follette antimerger law.

The plaintiffs in the suit are the Washington and Suburban companies, the Chase, Harris-Forbes Corporation and the Public Utility Holding Corporation. The court action follows a series of conferences between the commission and Arthur Dean, counsel for the New York bankers.

Throughout the summer, Mr. Dean held the commission at bay with promises of a proposal that would be satisfactory to the commission. About six weeks ago, he submitted a proposition, which was declared by the commission "not even understandable." Until the bill was filed, however, the commission did not know what action would be taken by the owners of the gas company.

Elaborate Banking Setup.

The elaborate setup of bankers, utility holding companies and trusts involved in the ownership of the Washington gas companies has undergone several changes since the order was issued by the commission May 7 subsequent to a prolonged hearing and somewhat sensational investigation directed by William A. Roberts, special counsel for the commission.

The Central Public Service Corporation, which at one time was the operating factor of the set-up, has been assimilated by the Central Public Service Corporation and associated organizations with a resultant reduction in the value of stocks from $400,000,000 to $189,000,000. The control is believed to have been divided among six banks.

The bill of complaint charges that the District Supreme Court, rather than the commission, has authority to determine if the La Follette law is being violated, that the findings of fact upon which the order was based are erroneous and that the hearing was illegal.

Second Time in Court.

This will be the second time the question of ownership of the gas companies has reached court, the District losing the first suit when the Seaboard Investment Trust was held to be a common law trust and not subject to the restrictions of the La Follette act.

It is believed the gas company owners have sought to set up a similar organization, and having done so are now ready to test the application of the antimerger law.

The commission has 20 days in which to file answer to the suit. Besides Mr. Dean, Attorneys McKinney, Flannery & Craighill represent the gas company owners.

Curtiss Bonded On Liquor Count

Assistant District Engineer Refuses to Confirm or Deny Charges.

Pleading guilty to transportation and possession of a quantity of alleged liquor, a man said to be William W. Curtiss, assistant engineer of the District, was released under $500 bond yesterday, following a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Frank Supplee, in Baltimore.

Curtiss was arrested on the Defense highway near Annapolis late Thursday by dry agents. Harry A. Key, in charge of the District Highway Department repair shop, was said to have been with Curtiss at the time. A ten-gallon keg, a five-gallon keg and three gallon jars of alleged liquor were said by police to have been found in the automobile, driven by Curtiss.

Reached at his home, 1429 Montague street northwest, last night Curtiss would neither confirm nor deny the charges. Key, however, denied any knowledge of the affair, saying "it must have been someone else."

Mortgage Company Sues for $16,993.

The Federal Security & Mortgage Co., 1522 K street northwest, yesterday filed suit against Morris Gewirz, former secretary and treasurer of the company, for $16,993.65. The mortgage company claimed that sum of money had been diverted from the company between March, 1930, and January, 1932.

Woman Calls Holdup Bluff Of Empty-Handed Assailant

"Don't move, lady, I've got a gun!" A colored man stood beside the parked automobile of Mrs. Emma S. Trainer, of 3714 Garfield street northwest. His right hand was covered by a handkerchief.

Thrusting his concealed hand into the machine, parked near Seventeenth and I streets northwest, the man demanded money from Mrs. Trainer. She was threatened with death unless she surrendered the contents of her pocketbook.

Disregarding the man's threats, Mrs. Trainer made a grab for the handkerchief covering his hand. It fell to the floor of the car. His empty hand was revealed. His ruse discovered, the man fled. His description was given to police of the Third Precinct.

A short time later Policeman J. J. Purvis accosted a colored man carrying two boxes of fruit near Fifteenth and L streets northwest. It was discovered they had been stolen from a fruit stand. The man, who answered the description of Mrs. Trainer's assailant, was held for investigation. He said he was James Howard, 23 years old, of 2030 Alexandria court northwest.

HEARING SCHEDULED ON IDLE RELIEF CUT

Commissioners Tuesday Will Study 40 Per Cent Slash in Aid Scale.

The District Commissioners yesterday scheduled a hearing on the proposal of the Board of Public Welfare to reduce the scale of unemployment relief 40 per cent after receiving a protest from the Monday Evening Club. The hearing will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday in the office of Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board.

Pointing out that the Monday Evening Club took an active part in supporting the appropriation for unemployment relief, which was cut from $600,000 to $350,000, Leifur Magnusson, president of the club, said in a letter to the commissioners that members of the organization "feel great concern that the relief should be so administered as to minimize as much as possible the suffering caused by unemployment."

The emergency committee of the welfare board this week decided to order the 40 per cent reduction, even though relief is now based on the bare necessities of life, because of the overwhelming demand. Leroy A. Halbert, director of the fund, reported that $40,000 has already been expended and that less than half of the applicants have been given employment to date.

The relief committee is now paying only 35 cents an hour, and reports are that this will be cut to 25 cents an hour. Last year the rate paid by the employment committee was 45 cents, which is the minimum wage for laborers demanded by the Commissioners of all contractors on municipal construction projects.

Teacher Vacancies To Be Filled Soon

Board of Education Will Appoint 200 at Its Meeting Wednesday.

Vacancies in the teaching staff of the District school system will be filled next Wednesday at the first meeting of the Board of Education for 1932-33, it was announced yesterday.

About 200 positions are to be filled. Teachers already on the waiting list will be appointed.

Another major item to come up for consideration by the board, will be the formal designation of buildings to house night school classes. E. J. Lockwood, director of night schools, is completing plans. His program will have to be approved by the board, however, before being placed in operation.

Trusty at District Jail Walks Away to Liberty

A colored man, serving ten days in the District Jail on charges of drunkenness, escaped last night by walking from the prison hospital, where he was working as a trusty.

Charles Hall, who formerly lived at 1245 Second street northwest, was committed to jail less than a week ago. A lookout was broadcast over the police radio.

FOURTH OF AUTOISTS FOUND IGNORING LAW

Result of Traffic Studies in Capital Is Revealed by Van Duzer.

Simple traffic regulations, enacted in the interest of safety, are ignored by 25 per cent of Washington's automobile drivers, Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer announced yesterday as a revelation of a series of traffic studies conducted by his department.

The violations, Mr. Van Duzer said, consist mainly of speeding, failing to yield the right of way, passing other vehicles at intersections and cutting corners. Drivers who persistently violate these rules are contributing to conditions which cause unnecessary accidents, the traffic head asserted.

The study of speed indicated that taxis and other commercial vehicles were more liable to proceed at excessive rates than private vehicles. One incident recorded, however, was of a race at 90 miles an hour between two privately owned cars on Connecticut avenue.

Mr. Van Duzer plans to compare the studies with traffic conditions in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, where similar surveys have been made.

The conclusions were drawn from observations made by traffic checkers at different intersections in the District. Typical of the situation was the result at Seventeenth and T streets northwest. Of 1,022 vehicles passing there, 388 were observing the safety regulations.

Woodrum to Accompany Fire Department Band

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, of the Sixth District of Virginia, will accompany the Volunteer Fire Department Band, of Bedford, Va., of which he is a member, to Washington, where the organization will compete in the band contest of the annual Labor Day parade, according to a letter received yesterday by Sergt. A. G. Bargagni, chairman of the parade committee.

The Bedford unit will arrive Monday and will be transported to their local headquarters by Police Department trucks. At 5:30 p. m. Monday the band, which is composed of 68 pieces, will present a concert at the Capitol Plaza. Representative Woodrum will take part in the concert.

Struck While Attempting to Cross Street in Georgetown.

A 10-year-old boy was critically injured late yesterday when struck by an automobile as he attempted to cross a street in the Georgetown business district during the heavy afternoon traffic hour.

John Mock, 1322 Thirty-sixth street northwest, was reported in a critical condition at the Episcopal Hospital, where he was removed after receiving first-aid treatment at Georgetown Hospital. A diagnosis revealed a possible fracture of the skull, a severe laceration of the right eye, and various contusions of the body.

Seventh Precinct police, who are investigating, said the boy attempted to make a crossing in the 3200 block of M street northwest, when he ran into the side of a car operated by Joseph P. Gamble, 38, of Ballston.

GASSED VETERAN TRIES TO END LIFE

Takes Poison While Being Held in Alexandria; Condition Critical.

Leslie Cohen, 42 years old, of Richmond, Va., is in a serious condition at Alexandria City Hospital as the result of poison he drank while a prisoner at Alexandria, Va., police headquarters yesterday.

Cohen appeared at the police station yesterday and told the clerk on duty that he was an escaped convict and wanted to give himself up. He did not say from where he had escaped. He was placed in a cell pending investigation.

Last night he asked the desk clerk to bring him the poison for use as an antiseptic on a sore he said he had on his leg which he was afraid would become infected. The obliging clerk took the poison to the man, who reached through the bars and grabbed the bottle, draining its contents. He was hurried to the hospital where it was said he had been gassed in the World War and appeared mentally unbalanced. Hospital authorities said he might recover.

THE NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

METROPOLITAN

"HORSE FEATHERS," Paramount picturization of a story by Bert Kalman, Harry Ruby and S. J. Perelman, with music and lyrics by Kalman and Ruby, starring the Four Marx Brothers, with Thelma Todd and David Landau. Directed by Norman McLeod. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Gaited to a mile-a-minute clip, funnier in its deliriously daffy way than either "Cocoanuts" or "Monkey Business," this exhibition of inspired lunacy takes rank as far and away the balmiest, most boisterous and most continuously convulsing exposition of Marxian quipping, quirking and musicalizing yet released in celluloid form.

The four madcap mummers, Groucho, Chico, Harpo and Zeppo, can not be accused of hatching a plot among them, but a sort of disjointed sequence of harmlessly idiotic episodes is traceable through the characters they represent. Groucho is introduced as the newly appointed president of Huxley College, whose inaugural address soon degenerates into a rowdy song, in which th entire student body finally joins, with the rostrumful of dignified, bewhiskered professors falling into the familiar chorus routines of the musical comedy line girls! Harpo is identified as the village dog catcher, equipped with novel but effective means of luring stray pups into his eager nets; Chico, as a bootlegger, whose strict attention to business practically ruins a perfectly good speakeasy. Zeppo, as usual, is the Grecian-profiled vocalist who, as President Wagstaff's son, has spent twelve years in Huxley trying to make the grade with the blonde and sirenic "college widow."

Professor Wagstaff finally commissions the dog catcher and the bootlegger to kidnap the two stars of the rival Darwin's football team. The fact that they themselves are shanghaied, instead, does not at all serve to prevent the holding of the game, which strikes a new high in revolutionary gridiron methods and excruciating comedy.

Nothing could be more futile than an attempt to detail the reasons why this is one of the greatest of the talking screen's laughing hits. Its speed is as much mental as physical and many of its comedy devices are no more chaste than they should be, but, after all, the Marx Brothers are the Marx Brothers and in this one they just happen to be at their racy and ribald best.

Thelma Todd, who is rapidly becoming as prominent in feature-length as in short-reel comedies, is the college widow, whose life is no bed of roses, what with a jealous boy friend always running across anywhere from one to four of the Marxes tangled with her in all sorts of amatory gestures and one thing and another!

Zeppo and Groucho both find frequent opportunity to sing their sentiments to the patient Miss Todd and Chico and Harpo express theirs, from time to time, on the piano and harp, respectively, with comic effects that none but thorough artists could manage.

David Landau, Nat Pendleton, James Pearce and Reginald Barlow are among the numerous others who add to the explosive qualities of a volcanic extravaganza.

"Rambling Around Radio Row," with glimpses of the Boswell Sisters, Abe Lyman, Col. Stoopnagle and Bud, Kate Smith and Nate Brusiloff in action; an elaborate musical skit in natural colors "C'est Paris," rather better than the usual run of such things, and the Paramount Sound news complete a bill that lends the new "Season of Pledged Entertainment" a real and tangible significance.

EARLE

"TWO AGAINST THE WORLD," Warner Brothers picturization of a story by Marion Dix and Jerry Horwin, starring Constance Bennett, with Neil Hamilton, Allen Vincent and Gavin Gordon. Directed by Archie Mayo. Reviewed Friday night by W. A. Whitney.

Among the more prominent satellites in the cinema firmament, none has shown greater or more consistent progress in the development of her art than Constance Bennett. Throughout her career Miss Bennett has earnestly striven to present a finished job, but not always without some taint of "acting" creeping into her work. In "Two Against the World," however, all traces of self-consciousness and studied perfection have been removed.

As a result, in the role of Adell Hamilton, Miss Bennett plays a spoiled daughter of one of Massachusetts' first families flawlessly, lending the character a realism that makes her egocentric posing a sham and, when faced with a real crisis, revealing her as possessed of all the finest of human attributes.

Aside from the domination of the entire piece by Miss Bennett's steller performance, the story itself is especially meritorious. Revolving around Dell's love and friendship for a "poor but honest" lawyer, the thread of narrative weaves in and out through the clash of so-called social distinctions and finally ends in a dramatic court scene where Dell is on the stand for a murder her brother committed.

As the young barrister, Neil Hamilton does a fine job. Other highly creditably played roles are those of Corinne, Dell's sister, by Helen Vinson; Dell's brother, Bob, by Allen Vincent; Victor Linley, roue, by Gavin Gordon, and Segall, court newspaperman, by Roscoe Karns.

Stopping last evening's stage show cold in its tracks was Ledova, the internationally renowned prima ballerina, and Leon Varkas in their satire of an authentic ballet in the Gay Nineties, and their thinly burlesqued rendition of the Cuban rhumba. Miss Ledova is ably assisted by Deosa, a charming Cuban lass, whose rendition of the St. Louis Blues in her native tongue won an ovation.

The rest of the bill introduced by Maxine Doyle—an azure symphony this week—included Buster and John West, stepping out with Patsy Boland; the Original Honey Boys, offering black-face minstrelsy, and Martin and Martin (Mr. and Mrs. to you), in aerial gymnastics and balancing feats.

Rounding out the screen subjects are Harry Richman, singing "I Love a Parade;" Ted Husing, announcing another of his Sportslants series, and releases of Paramount Pictorial and the Universal News.

LOEW'S FOX

"DIVORCE IN THE FAMILY," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picturization of a story by Maurice Rapf and Delmar Daves, adapted to the screen by Delmar Daves, featuring Jackie Cooper, Lewis Stone, Conrad Nagel and Lois Wilson. Directed by Charles F. Riesner. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

It's bargain week at the Fox! Jackie Cooper alone is enough to make any admission price seem a bargain to us, and for those not quite so infatuated, the Fox offers a beautifully costumed and nicely produced condensation of the tuneful "Rio Rita." This time a really good show, far and away better than a similar project with "Girl Crazy" as the subject which played some months ago at the Palace.

"Divorce in the Family" is just what its title would lead you to believe, the story of the difficulties of adjustment for children of divorced and remarried parents.

There is no solution offered here, no remedy for all the little kid's puzzled heartbreak; and caught in a tight corner of the problem, the picture welches a bit at the end and with some hokum and a little speech-making fades out indefinitely.

However, throughout most of its length it is an intensely interesting picture and whenever young "Coop" is about, it is grand entertainment. He is almost the whole show, causing merriment enough to drown out about a fifth of the dialogue. The best little actor of them all!

Conrad Nagel, Lewis Stone, and Lois Wilson do fine, understanding work as the new and old fathers and the mother, while Maurice Murphy is very good as Al. Jean Parker is pretty as Al's sweetheart.

As for "Rio Rita," the biggest hand should be given all the little girls in the chorus. Colorfully and charmingly costumed, they dance in and out, in and out, gayly, gracefully and unbelievably peppy.

Kitty Carlisle is an attractive Rita, with rather a lovely voice, but her Gringo-hero, Jim, is not particularly eloquent vocally in the person of Alan Waterous. Joyce White, as Dolly, dances delightfully. David Mallen and Earle Hampton are not overly amusing as Chic and Lovett, perhaps because the antics of Wheeler and Woolsey, the originals of the roles, linger so in memory.

But all in all, it is "Rio Rita," black-and-white chorus, Rangers' Song, "Kinkajou," and all, very recognizable and diverting.

COLUMBIA

"THE SIGN OF THE FOUR," World Wide filmization of a Sir Arthur Conan Doyle Sherlock Holmes story, featuring Arthur Wontner, Isla Bevan and Ian Hunter. Directed by Graham Cutts. Reviewed Friday night by M. A. McKavitt.

Washington theater fans again have an opportunity this week to watch that famous scientific sleuth, Sherlock Holmes, unravel another mystery with that daring and intrepidity which has made the name of Conan Doyle stand out boldly as a premier spinner of thrilling detective yarns.

In this particular picture we have presented an entertaining mixture of a penal colony, an English side show, with the barkers dispensing a most amusing cockney, a thrilling motorboat race at night and an exciting fight in a great warehouse in which a diversity of weapons are used. The plot is complicated enough, in spite of the amazing deductive reasoning of Sherlock Holmes. In fact, perhaps, the great detective's skill throws the penetrating torch of clarification too brightly on the web of clews and possibly diminishes the suspense that should naturally follow. However, his remarkable faculty provides the thrill that might have issued out of the element of suspense.

Arthur Wontner, as Sherlock Holmes, looks the part and has that confidence which we expect in the character. Dr. Watson's "Most Amazing, My Dear Holmes" is, of course, by now wholly familiar. Mary Marstan, played by Isla Bevan, at times suggests Constance Bennett, although her ability as an actress does not perpetuate the resemblance. The Scotland Yard inspector, whom Holmes kids along, is fair. The pair of villains and their young Indian snake-charmer henchman make an interesting trio.

This tale of treasure and the lure of a famous pearl necklace will prove an intriguing respite from the horror film or the taxi-dance and gunman farrago.

The "Wonder Gem" short is the second in a series of enlighening travels and studies: "Balmy Daze," a comedy featuring shaving cream, is mildly amusing. The program is completed by the Paramount News' daredevil cameramen.

"DOWN TO EARTH," Fox picturization of a story by Homer Croy, adapted to the screen by Edwin Burke, starring Will Rogers, with Irene Rich, Dorothy Jordan and Matty Kemp. Directed by David Butler. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Mr. Croy, the author, and Mr. Rogers, the star, seem to have experienced some difficulty in making up their minds whether to launch this subject primarily as an entertainment for the masses or as a lecture on the causes of the depression and its possible remedies.

For the greater part of its length, "Down to Earth" is a homely and an amusing comedy-drama, carrying on the social adventures of Pike Peters, the Oklahoma garage man, and his family, of whom it will be remembered that "They Had to See Paris," but a trifle too often for its own good it pauses to moralize upon that Lincolnian topic of speculation, "Why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"

Mrs. Pike Peters, now that they are rich—nouveau riche, if you must know—can think of as many reasons for being a little high hat, while the money holds out, as Pike can summon on the negative side when the crash comes. That, as a matter of fact, is the sum and substance of the story.

There is a quality reminiscent of George Ade in the fashioning of this fable of the simple-hearted man who faced ruin through the reckless extravagance and social ambition of his family and found his most sympathetic friend in the former Russian grand duke they had met in Paris and discovered a second time serving as doorman at a swanky Chicago hotel. The quiet satire and the hard common sense expounded throughout the action of the play somehow brings back to mind "The County Chairman," "Father and the Boys," or perhaps "The Man From Home," that substantial collaboration of Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson's.

Paralleling the major movement of the narrative, having to do with the paterfamilias' business troubles, is a vein of romance involving his sporty young son whose devious enterprises help pull down the Peters' palace about their ears. All in all, wide play is afforded for spectacular display of the garish opulence that expresses itself in feverish garden parties, costume balls and gold-plated "informal" luncheons. The Peters' modest little home evidently was patterned after the palace of Versailles!

When Will Rogers sticks to the Sol Smith Russell sort of thing, as he does most of the time in this, he is in his element and an authentic and believable character-comedian, but I know of nothing more irritating than this same Mr. Rogers when he goes whimsical and coy, as he also does at frequent intervals during this otherwise unblemished performance. An ingenuous Will Rogers is just a bit hard to take!

Irene Rich, again the wife; Dorothy Jordan, Marty Kemp, as the son; Mary Carlyle, the hoyden heiress; Brandon Hurst and Theodore Lodi, as the Grand Duke, render valuable support, the usually reliable Miss Jordan being the only one who occasionally becomes a trifle too flittery.

Clyde Cooke and Franklin Pangborn in a Hal Roach comedy, "What Price Taxi;" a Tahitian scenic gem, "Sea Spiders," with a submarine story of the pearl fishers, and the Metrotone News augment a bill that will hold its own in a week of exceptional offerings.

COAST ARTILLERY VETERAN RETIRED

Special to The Washington Post.

Camp Pollard, Virginia Beach, Va., Sept. 2.—After 30 years of continuous service, during which time he did not miss a single day's duty, Master Sergt. John W. Waldron, Coast Artillery Corps, attached to the 260th Coast Artillery, of Washington, was retired this afternoon at Fort Monroe, Va. Heading the list of distinguished visitors were Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commanding the Twenty-ninth Division, National Guard, at Camp Pollard, with the division staff; Lieut. Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, adjutant general of the District of Columbia National Guard; Maj. L. McD. Silvester, United States Army, with Twenty-ninth Division staff as instructor, and Capt. Carey E. Stern, aid, of Richmond, Va.

Full military honors were tendered Sergt. Waldron. The 260th Coast Artillery, now in training at Fort Monroe, and other organizations at the fort "passed in review" in honor of the sergeant, who sat in the reviewing stand as the guest of honor. The impressive ceremony was attended by a large number of civilians.

Sergt. Waldron has been a resident of Washington for the past several years, where he has been on duty as a United States Army instructor with the 260th Coast Artillery.

The headquarters detachment, Twenty-ninth Division, commanded by Lieut. David W. Milne, and the Twenty-ninth Military Police Company, under Lieut. Merrill D. Reich, both Washington organizations, underwent an official field inspection today with Lieut. Cols. John Bubb and Jere Baxter and Maj. William Pendleton, comprising the Army inspection board, as the official representative of the United States Army. The men were required to pitch a shelter tent camp and lay out their personal equipment for the scrutiny of the inspecting officers. Both units were recorded as satisfactory. In the afternoon preparations for breaking camp in the morning were started and the headquarters men transferred all the tent floors in their area to the storage buildings. Tomorrow tents will be taken down and stored before leaving the camp.

Delaware was best represented by travelers in Washington during the last five months, with Florida running a close second, it was announced yesterday by the Washington Board of Trade, in making public the result of a tabulation carried on since April.

Other States, in order of their representation, were Pennsylvania, New Jersey, North Carolina, New York, Connecticut, West Virginia, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Ohio, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Maine and Georgia. Maryland and Virginia were excluded from the count.

The tabulation was based on the number of automobiles bearing foreign license plates, in proportion to the population of the States.
